Northrop Frye's Late Notebooks, 1982-1990 Northrop Frye, 2000-01-01 An inveterate notebook keeper Northrop Frye continually jotted down his ideas and thoughts as he worked through the complex schemes of his criticism Volumes 5 and 6 of the Collected Works are the notebooks that he kept while writing his two final books Words with Power and The Double Vision They provide a record of what he was reading and thinking as he struggled with the implications of those projects In a sense they are the workshops out of which the books were constructed While focusing on the works in progress the 3684 entries presented here range over diverse territory never failing to surprise delight and provoke In these notebooks for instance we find comments triggered by a detective story Frye is reading a lecture he has to prepare a glance at the books on his shelves a quotation he remembers a letter received or the memory of a trip In many respects the notebooks reveal a Frye who is quite different from the critic who made his reputation with Fearful Symmetry and Anatomy of Criticism displaying aspects of his personality and thought that are not apparent in his books and essays The notebooks show us the unbuttoned Frye a complex man capable of both spiritual transcendence and hard headed pragmatism Here for instance his criticism of Catholicism is far more acerbic than in anything he published Likewise his rejection of both Marxist and feminist ideology is far more pointed than elsewhere

These two volumes include seven of Frye's handwritten notebooks and five collections of his typed notebooks all previously unpublished. The material is the record of an extraordinary intellectual odyssey, an odyssey that is at its base deeply spiritual.

Moved Out on the Inside Julia Vose, 1976 Images of the Corpse Elizabeth Klaver, 2004 This compelling book brings together physicians, artists, and scholars of film, literature, philosophy, art, and politics to discuss the representation of the corpse in Western culture. Spanning a timeline from the Renaissance to the present, these essays introduce readers to a modern autopsy, a public execution and dissection in seventeenth-century England, the genre of postmortem photography, the corpse as artist's model, images of dead women in such popular films as Copypat and The Silence of the Lambs, and postmortem scenes in the works of Flaubert, Balzac, Andres Serrano, and others. The Complete Works of Nathaniel Hawthorne: Passages from the American Notebooks of Nathaniel Hawthorne Nathaniel Hawthorne, 1910 The Cambridge Companion to American Poets Mark Richardson, 2015-10-15 This Companion brings together essays on some fifty-four American poets from Anne Bradstreet to contemporary performance poetry. This book also examines such movements in American poetry as modernism, the Harlem or New Negro Renaissance, confessional poetry, the Black Mountain School, the New York School, the Beats, and LANGUAGE poetry. Anne Sexton Anne Sexton, 2016-04-05 A revealing collection of letters from Pulitzer Prize-winning poet Anne Sexton. While confessional poet Anne Sexton included details of her life and battle with mental illness in her published work, her letters to family, friends, and fellow poets provide an even more intimate glimpse into her private world. Selected from thousands of letters and edited by Linda Gray Sexton, the poet's daughter, and Lois Ames, one of her closest friends, this collection exposes Sexton's inner life from her boarding school days through her years of growing fame and ultimately to the months leading up to her suicide. Correspondence with writers like W.D. Snodgrass, Robert Lowell, and May Swenson reveals Sexton's growing confidence in her identity as a poet as she discusses her craft, publications, and teaching appointments. Her private letters chart her marriage to Alfred Mayo Sexton from the giddy excitement following their elopement to their eventual divorce, her grief over the death of her parents, her great love for her daughters balanced with her frustration with the endless tasks of being a housewife, and her persistent struggle with depression. Going beyond the angst and neuroses of her poetry, these letters portray the full complexities of the woman behind the art: passionate, anguished, ambitious, and yearning for connection. The Death of the Book John Lurz, 2016-07-01 An examination of the ways major novels by Marcel Proust, James Joyce, and Virginia Woolf draw attention to their embodiment in the object of the book. The Death of the Book considers how bookish format plays a role in some of the twentieth century's most famous literary experiments. Tracking the passing of time in which reading unfolds, these novels position the book's so-called death in terms that refer as much to a simple description of its future vis-à-vis other media forms as to the sense of finitude these books share with and transmit to their readers. As he interrogates the affective, physical, and temporal valences of literature's own traditional format and mode of access, John Lurz shows how these novels stage intersections with the phenomenal world of their readers and develop a conception of literary experience not accounted for by either rigorously historicist or traditionally formalist accounts of the modernist period Bringing together issues of media and mediation book history and modernist aesthetics The Death of the Book offers a new and deeper understanding of the way we read now This Business of Words fresh history of nineteenth-century philosophy's many ideas about secularization The secularization thesis which held that religious belief would gradually yield to rationality has been thoroughly debunked What then can we learn from philosophers for whom the death of God seemed so imminent In this book Espen Hammer offers a sweeping analysis of secularization in nineteenth-century German philosophy arguing that the persistence of religion rather than its absence animated this tradition Hammer shows that Kant Hegel Feuerbach Marx and Nietzsche each in their own way sought to preserve and transform religion's ethical and communal aspirations for modern life A renewed appreciation for this tradition's generous thought Hammer argues can help us chart a path through needlessly destructive conflicts between secularists and fundamentalists today The Death and Life of Dith Pran Sydney H. Schanberg, 2019-01-23 The US journalist's account of his colleague's struggle to survive the Cambodian genocide the basis for the Oscar-winning film The Killing Fields On April 17, 1975 Khmer Rouge soldiers seized Phnom Penh the capital of Cambodia and began a brutal genocide that left millions dead Dith Pran a Cambodian working as an assistant to American reporter Sydney H. Schanberg was a witness to these events While his employer managed to escape across the border Dith Pran fled into the Cambodian countryside and into the heart of the massacre The basis for the acclaimed movie The Killing Fields this is the compelling account of the days before the fall of Phnom Penh It's the story of one man's struggle for survival in a country that had become a death camp for millions of its citizens and another man's failed efforts to keep his friend and colleague safe. Written within a year of the atrocities committed by the Khmer Rouge, it is a work of both historical and literary significance. Sydney H. Schanberg contributed a moving new foreword to this first eBook edition.

Writing and Victorianism J.B. Bullen, 2014-06-06

Writing and Victorianism asks the fundamental question: what is Victorianism? and offers a number of answers taken from methods and approaches which have been developed over the last ten years. This collection of essays, written by both new and established scholars from Britain and the U.S.A., develops many of the themes of nineteenth-century studies which have lately come to the fore, touching upon issues such as drugs, class, power, and gender. Some essays reflect the interaction of word and image in the nineteenth century, and the notion of the city as spectacle; others look at Victorian science, finding a connection between writing and the growth of psychology and psychiatry, on the one hand, and with the power of scientific materialism, on the other. As well as key figures such as Dickens, Tennyson, and Wilde, a host of new names are introduced, including working-class writers attempting to define themselves, and writers in the periodical press who once anonymously exercised a great influence over Victorian politics, taste, and social ideals. From these observations, there emerges a need for self-definition in Victorian writing. History, ancestry, and the past all play their part in figuring the present in the nineteenth century, and many of these studies foreground the problem of literary, social, and psychological identity.
