The Enclosure Of Ocean Resources Economics And The Law Of The Sea:

The Enclosure of Ocean Resources Ross D. Eckert,1979 International Law of the Sea and Marine Affairs
Nikos Papadakis,Martin Ira Glassner,1984-04-06 International Law of the Sea and Marine Affairs Managing Ocean Resources Robert L Friedheim,2019-03-13 This comprehensive collection of data and theory provides an essential resource base for intelligent ocean management decisions The book begins with essays on ocean science and technology social and political organization theory relating to the oceans and some of the problems of extracting energy from the oceans and monitoring oceans from space A handbook on the new law of the sea. 2 (1991) René Jean Dupuy,Daniel Vignes,1991-10-16 The fact that the Montego Bay Convention has been only ratified by 37 States at present and that it will be some time before the 60 ratifications required by Article 308 are achieved has not prevented states from acting in accordance with the rules drawn up by the Conference Close on one hundred states have established either exclusive economic zones broadly modelled on Part V or 200 nautical mile fishery zones and drawn on the principles laid down for exploiting living resources Although these laws have been formulated unilaterally by states international custom since the judgement by the International Court of Justice in the Fisheries Case of 18 December 1951 is derived from concordant national rules This shift began even before the Conference ended and has been consolidated since then Moreover the r gime governing the sea bed beyond the limits of national jurisdiction defined by Part XI which was the stumbling block of the Conference is subject to transitional arrangements on the basis of two resolutions adopted in the Conference's Final Act one providing for the establishment of a Preparatory Commission and the other on the preliminary activities of pioneer investors This two volume work an earlier edition of which appeared in French has been written by a team of experts of international renown It presents an analysis of the Convention with an additional Chapter on the legal r gime governing underwater archaeological and historical objects A Handbook on the New Law of the Sea, Volume 2 Daniel Vignes,R.J. Dupuy,2023-09-20 The fact that the Montego Bay Convention has been only ratified by 37 States at present and that it will be some time before the 60 ratifications required by Article 308 are achieved has not prevented states from acting in accordance with the rules drawn up by the Conference Close on one hundred states have established either exclusive economic zones broadly modelled on Part V or 200 nautical mile fishery zones and drawn on the principles laid down for exploiting living resources Although these laws have been formulated unilaterally by states international custom since the judgement by the International Court of Justice in the Fisheries Case of 18 December 1951 is derived from concordant national rules This shift began even before the Conference ended and has been consolidated since then Moreover the r gime governing the sea bed beyond the limits of national jurisdiction defined by Part XI which was the stumbling block of the Conference is subject to transitional arrangements on the basis of two resolutions adopted in the Conference's Final Act one providing for the establishment of a Preparatory Commission and the other on the preliminary activities of pioneer investors

This two volume work an earlier edition of which appeared in French has been written by a team of experts of international renown It presents an analysis of the Convention with an additional Chapter on the legal regime governing underwater archaeological and historical objects Marine Policy and Economics Porter Hoagland, John H. Steele, Steve A. Thorpe, 2010 This title is an important reference on current knowledge and expertise in one convenient and accessible source The selected articles all written by experts in their field fall into several categories Marine Mineral Resources Fillmore C. F. Earney, 2012-11-12 During the past century scientists world statesmen and international entrepreneurs have become increasingly aware of the potential of the oceans as a source of minerals This book provides an authoritative picture of the current state of marine mineral extraction A major work of reference it will be essential reading for both those engaged in maritime studies and for professional organisations involved in the extraction of underwater minerals Equitable Principles of Maritime Boundary Delimitation Thomas Cottier, 2015-04-30 Equity emerged as a powerful symbol of aspired redistribution in international relations Operationally it has had limited impact in the Westphalian system of nation states except for maritime boundary delimitations This book deals with the role of equity in international law and offers a detailed case study on maritime boundary delimitation in the context of the enclosure movement in the law of the sea It assesses treaty law and the impact of the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea It depicts the process of trial and error in the extensive case law of the International Court of Justice and arbitral tribunals and expounds the underlying principles and factors informing the methodology both in adjudication and negotiations Unlike other books the main focus is on equity and its implications for legal methodology in particular offering further guidance in the field of international economic law The Use of CITES for Commercially-exploited Fish Species Solène Guggisberg, 2015-12-11 This book examines the legality adequacy and efficacy of using the Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species of Wild Fauna and Flora CITES for commercially exploited fish species and assesses whether the existing institutional cooperation with the Food and Agriculture Organization FAO and regional fisheries management organizations RFMOs is efficient This case study also provides an interesting lens to approaching wider international law issues Indeed finding ways to achieve effective governance of transboundary or global natural resources is central to the peaceful use of oceans and land Furthermore the role of science in advising decision makers is a sensitive issue which deserves scrutiny and is similar in many regimes Finally the complex problem of fragmentation of international law is acute in various fields of environmental law as in all rapidly developing areas of international regulations The Global Commons Susan J. Buck, 2017-09-25 Antarctica the high seas and deep seabed the atmosphere and space are increasingly accessible and exploited resource domains Collectively known as the global commons they represent a new and profound challenge for international law and institutions In The Global Commons Susan Buck considers the unique physical legal management and policy problems associated with these areas The book is a clear useful introduction to the subject that will be of interest to general readers as well as to students in international relations international law and environmental law and policy
