A Sportsman's Sketches Ivan Turgenev, 2018-02-12 Anyone who has chanced to pass from the Bolhovskiy district into the Zhizdrinsky district must have been impressed by the striking difference between the race of people in the province of Orel and the population of the province of Kaluga. The peasant of Orel is not tall, is bent in figure, sullen and suspicious in his looks; he lives in wretched little hovels of aspen wood, labours as a serf in the fields and engages in no kind of trading; is miserably fed and wears slippers of bast; the rent-paying peasant of Kaluga lives in roomy cottages of pine wood; he is tall, bold and cheerful in his looks, neat and clean of countenance; he carries on a trade in butter and tar and on holidays he wears boots. The village of the Orel province we are speaking now of, the eastern part of the province, is usually situated in the midst of ploughed fields near a water course which has been converted into a filthy pool. Except for a few of the ever accommodating willows and two or three gaunt birch trees you do not see a tree for a mile round; hut is huddled up against hut, their roofs covered with rotting thatch.
