

In the various countries a large (5) percent export share often goes uncollected by the host governments in the commodities. It is common for export taxes to be levied on the host country and a smaller percentage (usually 10 percent) on the foreign companies. In some of the 1980s, for instance, the United States levied a 10 percent export tax on the host country and a 10 percent export tax on the foreign companies. The United States levied a 10 percent export tax on the host country and a 10 percent export tax on the foreign companies. The United States levied a 10 percent export tax on the host country and a 10 percent export tax on the foreign companies.

As pointed out in the article, the production of the modern 2- and 3-linguals in the United States is not, as often claimed, the result of a conscious effort to create bilingual or bicultural individuals. It is, rather, the result of the socialization of the child, but this is the socialization with respect to the language(s) of the majority.
