Remme,Benjamin Torben-Nielsen,2013-11-23 Neuronal dendritic trees are complex structures that endow the cell with powerful computing capabilities and allow for high neural interconnectivity. Studying the function of dendritic structures has a long tradition in theoretical neuroscience starting with the pioneering work by Wilfrid Rall in the 1950s. Recent advances in experimental techniques allow us to study dendrites with a new perspective and in greater detail. The goal of this volume is to provide a r sum of the state of the art in experimental, computational and mathematical investigations into the functions of dendrites in a variety of neural systems. The book first looks at morphological properties of dendrites and summarizes the approaches to measure dendrite morphology quantitatively and to actually generate synthetic dendrite morphologies in computer models. This morphological characterization ranges from the study of fractal principles to describe dendrite topologies to the consequences of optimization principles for dendrite shape. Individual approaches are collected to study the aspects of dendrite shape that relate directly to underlying circuit constraints and computation. The second main theme focuses on how dendrites contribute to the computations that neurons perform. What role do dendritic morphology and the distributions of synapses and membrane properties over the dendritic tree have in determining the output of a neuron in response to its input? A wide range of studies is brought together with topics ranging from general to system specific phenomena, some having a strong experimental component and others being fully theoretical. The studies come from many different neural systems and animal species ranging from invertebrates to mammals. With this broad focus, an overview is given of the diversity of mechanisms that dendrites can employ to shape neural computations.

Animals in Young Adult Fiction Walter Hogan, 2009-07-01 Of the many themes occurring in young adult literature, one that bears more extensive exploration is the adolescent animal connection. Although substantial critical commentary has addressed children's animal stories and animals in adult fiction, very few studies have been devoted to adolescent animal encounters. In Animals in Young Adult Fiction, Walter Hogan examines several hundred novels and stories to explore the ways in which animals are represented in these works. In addition to providing an historical survey, Hogan looks at both realistic fiction and speculative works including fantasy, supernatural horror, and science fiction. Hogan reviews stories that feature wild animal encounters, stories centered on relationships with horses, dogs, and other working and performing animals, and those featuring relationships with pets. Drawing upon established scholarship, this book examines human-animal relationships from multiple angles, making it an invaluable resource for librarians, teachers, and students of children's and young adult literature.

The Cerebral Cortex and Thalamus W. Martin Usrey, S. Murray Sherman, 2024 The Cerebral Cortex and Thalamus is a groundbreaking volume bringing together a cohesive account of cortical and thalamic mechanisms for control of behavior, with an emphasis on the importance of interactions between the two structures.

Prizing Children's Literature Kenneth Kidd, Joseph Thomas Jr., 2016-11-10 Children's book awards have mushroomed since the early twentieth century and especially since the 1960s when literary prizing became a favored strategy for both commercial promotion and canon making. There are over 300 awards for English language titles.

alone but despite the profound impact of children's book awards scholars have paid relatively little attention to them This book is the first scholarly volume devoted to the analysis of Anglophone children's book awards in historical and cultural context With attention to both political and aesthetic concerns the book offers original and diverse scholarship on prizing practices and their consequences in Australia Canada and especially the United States Contributors offer both case studies of particular awards and analysis of broader trends in literary evaluation and elevation drawing on theoretical work on canonization and cultural capital Sections interrogate the complex and often unconscious ideological work of prizing the ongoing tension between formalist awards and so called identity based awards all the more urgent in light of the We Need Diverse Books campaign the ever morphing forms and parameters of prizing and scholarly practices of prizing Among the many awards discussed are the Pura Belpr Medal the Inky Awards the Canada Governor General Literary Award the Printz Award the Best Animated Feature Oscar the Phoenix Award and the John Newbery Medal giving due attention to prizes for fiction as well as for non fiction poetry and film This volume will interest scholars in literary and cultural studies social history book history sociology education library and information science and anyone concerned with children's literature
