American accounts revealing how people made sense of new or changing environments Routledge vividly depicts the experiences of American whalers and explorers in Inuit homelands Conversely she relates stories of Inuit who traveled to the northeastern United States and were similarly challenged by the norms practices and weather they found there Standing apart from earlier books of Arctic cultural research which tend to focus on either Western expeditions or Inuit life Do You See Ice explores relationships between these two groups in a range of northern and temperate locations Based on archival research and conversations with Inuit Elders and experts Routledge s book is grounded by ideas of home how Inuit and Americans often experienced each other s countries as dangerous and inhospitable how they tried to feel at home in unfamiliar places and why these feelings and experiences continue to resonate today The author intends to donate all royalties from this book to the Elders Room at the Angmarlik Center in Pangnirtung Nunavut

Wild

Romanticism Markus Poetzsch, Cassandra Falke, 2021-03-30 Wild Romanticism consolidates contemporary thinking about conceptions of the wild in British and European Romanticism clarifying the emergence of wilderness as a cultural symbolic and ecological idea This volume brings together the work of twelve scholars who examine representations of wildness in canonical texts such as Frankenstein Northanger Abbey Kubla Khan Expostulation and Reply and Childe Harold's Pilgrimage as well as lesser known works by Radcliffe Clare H. Loderlin P. B. Shelley and Hogg Celebrating the wild provided Romantic period authors with a way of thinking about nature that resists instrumentalization and anthropocentrism but writing about wilderness also engaged them in debates about the sublime and picturesque as aesthetic categories about gender and the cultivation of independence as natural and about the ability of natural forces to resist categorical or literal enclosure This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of Romanticism environmental literature environmental history and the environmental humanities more broadly

Peak Pursuits Caroline Schaumann, 2020-07-28 An interdisciplinary cultural history of exploration and mountaineering in the nineteenth century European forays to mountain summits began in the late eighteenth and early nineteenth centuries with the search for plants and minerals and the study of geology and glaciers Yet scientists were soon captivated by the enterprise of climbing itself enthralled with the views and the prospect of conquering alpine summits Inspired by Romantic notions of nature early mountaineers idealized their endeavors as sublime experiences all the while deliberately measuring what they saw As increased leisure time and advances in infrastructure and equipment opened up once formidable mountain regions to those seeking adventure and sport new models of masculinity emerged that were fraught with tensions This book examines how written and artistic depictions of nineteenth century exploration and mountaineering in the Andes the Alps and the Sierra Nevada shaped cultural understandings of nature and wilderness in the Anthropocene

Mountains Figured and Disfigured in the English-Speaking World Françoise Besson, 2020-06-01 The essays in this book written by poets novelists mountain climbers and academics from all over the world evoke the representation of mountains in the English speaking world as artists writers philosophers or mountain climbers have represented them from the sixteenth to the twenty first centuries From the Alps to the Pyrenees from Mount Fuji to Mount Shasta from the Himalayas to the Scottish Highlands from Ikere in Nigeria to Devil's Tower in the United States from Uluru in Australia to the most northern mountain of the Arctic the shapes of the world speak the same language and tell the world its own story This interdisciplinary book weaving together mountaineering literature philosophy painting cinema ecology history palaeontology geography geopolitics toponymy law religion and myth invites people to an innovative reading of mountains it reveals the close relationship existing between the shapes of the world and all forms of writing and at the same time it shows how the representations of the imagination may be instrumental in protecting the natural world The story told by the landscape inscribes a broken line in the shapes of the world tearing the landscape like a fragile page whenever historical and political events wars mining or deforestation leave scars in the landscape but writers and artists representations of mountains constitute a path to awareness as they are not only a painting of beauty but an image of our link to nature and a warning as well For centuries the image of the mountain has conveyed a symbolism telling the story of human thought and this book shows to what extent literature and art play an essential part in our awareness of nature

Underwood, 2015-12-11 At the end of the Eighteenth century British writers began to celebrate work in a strangely indirect way Instead of describing diligence as an attribute of character poets and novelists increasingly identified work with impersonal energies akin to natural force Chemists traced mental and muscular work back to its source in sunlight giving rise to the claim beloved by Nineteenth century journalists that all the labour done under the sun is really done by it The Work of The Sun traces the emergence of this model of work exploring its sources in middle class consciousness and its implications for British literature and science Inhospitable World Jennifer Fay, 2018-03-01 While standard ecological criticism attends to the environmental crisis as an unraveling of our natural state this book looks to films and media theory to consider how they reflect upon the creation and destruction of artificial human environments What are the implications of ecological inhospitality And what role might cinema and media theory play in challenging our presumed right to occupy and populate the world As an art form cinema enjoys a unique relationship to the material elemental world it captures and produces Through it we may appreciate the ambitions to design an unhomely planet that may no longer accommodate us The Botanic Garden by Erasmus Darwin Adam Komisaruk, 2017-07-06 The career of Erasmus Darwin 1731-1802 affords an extraordinary glimpse into the intellectual ferment of late eighteenth and early nineteenth century Britain As a popular poet practicing physician inventor of speaking machines and mechanical birds essayer of natural history from geology to meteorology and proponent of an evolutionary theory that inspired his famous grandson Charles he left a lasting impression on almost every branch of knowledge His magnum opus and the synthesis of
