Responsible Management Education Ranjni Swamy, 2017-10-04. This edited collection emerged from the need to know how business schools in Asia are inculcating responsible management. Data for the book was sourced from a) the workshop proceedings of the 6th PRME Asia Forum held in November 2015 and b) case studies submitted as part of the Forum Academics from India, China, Philippines, New Zealand, USA, and Hong Kong, who taught in Asia, contributed to the workshop. The case studies. The book describes how some Asian business schools are incorporating ethics, social responsibility, and sustainability into their curricular and extra-curricular activities. It identifies the challenges faced in providing such education and the implications thereof. In the process, it captures the unique flavour of Asian business schools. Business schools in Asia appear to have introduced several stand-alone courses on ethics and corporate responsibility. They have adopted pedagogies suited to the profile of their students. Many have promoted a concern for the poor through volunteering projects or internships with NGOs. However, few have made responsible management a central part of their business school curriculum. Greater integration of responsible management into the curriculum requires supportive administrative policies, greater cross-functional interaction, and the development of context-appropriate learning materials.

Human Resources in Healthcare, Health Informatics and Healthcare Systems Kabene, Stéfane M., 2010-07-31. While many countries enjoy the benefits of modern healthcare systems and social and economic policies that improve life expectancy, many countries still have high maternal and infant mortality rates, struggle with infectious diseases, and face critical human resource shortages in healthcare. Human Resources in Healthcare, Health Informatics and Healthcare Systems addresses two major problems that threaten the health of the human race. The first of which is the lack of human resources in healthcare.

We need to ensure that we have an adequate number of healthcare professionals who are highly motivated and properly trained Furthermore we need to ensure that they have the latest health technology at their disposal which is the second major issue facing the world today The world s most respected scholars and practitioners describe their experiences and propose possible theoretical and practical solutions in this relevant and timely handbook
