Convergences Dr. Nabil M. Abdel-Al, 2017-05-25 This anthology is an amalgam of the authors output in the domains of interpretation translation and literary scholarship It is a serious attempt to highlight the cardinal traits common to said fields This research is a vested trek into the inner workings of the authors profession interpretation and translation as well as his standing engagement with literary genres throughout the ages The books uniqueness resides in treating a diversity of matters interrelated in various ways although on the surface it appears to make up a queer admixture of dissimilar elements hence the title Convergences Interpretation and translation are twin vocations and between them convergence is all encompassing Both transform a message from a source to a target language Complementary and mutually supportive as they are yet there is a train of difference in the execution of these two inseparable professions the method nature and techniques involved in each Interpretation is the instantaneous the simultaneous in a word the express mode of communication and translation is the meditative the slow or the local medium of correspondence Concomitantly literature is the crucible for teleologically permeable convergences and incredible divergences It has a noble ontological message and brings out humanitys hidden treasures experiences thoughts and choices Literatures lofty missive is grounded in understanding the scenes events and characters it depicts excerpts of which feed into discourses to be interpreted and translated Clients come up with multiple interpretations depending on circumstances and the context in which texts are couched

Recovering Memory Hedda Friberg, Irene Gilsenan Nordin, Lene Yding Pedersen, 2009-03-26 Various ways of collecting storing and recovering memories have been the focus of the most recent joint research project carried out by a group of Irish Studies scholars all based in the Nordic countries and members of the Nordic Irish Studies Network NISN The result of the project Recovering Memory Irish Representations of Past and Present is a collection of essays which examines the theme of memory in Irish literature and culture against the theoretical background of the philosophical discourse of modernity Offering a wide range of perspectives this volume examines a plurality of representations past and present of memory both public and private and the intersection between collective memory and individual in modern Ireland Also explored is the relation between memory and identity national and private as well as questions of subjectivity and the construction of the self Given Ireland s tragic past and its long history of colonisation it is inevitable that various aspects of memory in terms of nationality post colonialism and politics also have bearing on this study The volume is divided into five sections each of which examines one broadly defined aspect of memory The introductory section focuses on memory and history and is followed by sections on memory and autobiography place identity and memory in the work of novelist John Banville Within each section the individual writers engage in a fruitful dialogue with each other and with the approaches of such theorists as Arendt Husserl Merleau Ponty Ricoeur and Baudrillard

A Skeptic's Guide to Writers' Houses Anne Trubek, 2011-07-11 There are many ways to show our devotion to an author besides reading his or her works Graves make for popular pilgrimage sites but far more popular are writers house museums What is it we hope to accomplish by trekking to the home of a dead author We may go in search of the point of inspiration eager to stand on the very spot where our favorite literary characters first came to life and find ourselves instead in the house where the author himself was conceived or where she drew her last breath Perhaps it is a place through which our writer passed only briefly or maybe it really was a longtime home now thoroughly remade as a decorator s show house In A Skeptic's Guide to Writers Houses Anne Trubek takes a vexed often funny and always thoughtful tour of a goodly number of house museums across the nation In Key West she visits the shamelessly ersatz shrine to a hard living Ernest Hemingway while meditating on his lost Cuban farm and the sterile Idaho house in which he committed suicide In Hannibal Missouri she walks the fuzzy line between fact and fiction as she visits the home of the young Samuel Clemens and the purported haunts of Tom Sawyer Becky Thatcher and Injun Joe She hits literary pay dirt in Concord Massachusetts the nineteenth century mecca that gave home to Hawthorne Emerson and Thoreau and yet could not accommodate a surprisingly complex Louisa May Alcott She takes us along the trail of residences that Edgar Allan Poe left behind in the wake of his many failures and to the burned out shell of a California house with which Jack London staked his claim on posterity In Dayton Ohio a charismatic guide brings Paul Laurence Dunbar to compelling life for those few visitors willing to listen in Cleveland Trubek finds a moving remembrance of Charles Chesnutt in a house that no longer stands Why is it that we visit writers houses Although admittedly skeptical about the stories these buildings tell us about their former inhabitants Anne Trubek carries us along as she falls at least a little bit in love with each stop on her itinerary and finds in each some truth about literature history and contemporary America West Coast Review of Books, 1982
