Kain (Jones), Murray T. Brown, Marc Lahaye, 2012-12-06 International Seaweed Symposia have been held at three year intervals for nearly 50 years In the early days they formed the only international forum for marine phycologists and although there are now frequent phycological meetings their value has not diminished both because of the increased commercial importance of seaweeds and because of the unique mix of disciplines that the meetings attract Industrialists interact with chemists and biologists with the common aim of understanding seaweeds The main development during the last few decades has been an increase in the cultivation of algae as natural stocks of the useful species become depleted Of the first ten Symposia nine were held in western countries where seaweed cultivation is almost non-existent It is appropriate that the last two have been held where algal exploitation is relatively big business The popularity of the Symposia with scientists has meant that the standard of presentation has always been high Many participants from the countries with the highest economic involvement with seaweeds frequently publish in their own languages so their contributions give considerable additional interest to the Proceedings The Philippines with its extensive coastline much of which supports seaweed exploitation and cultivation was an excellent venue for the latest Symposium The papers presented in this volume reflect the continuing world wide interest in marine algae and range from results using cutting edge laboratory techniques to simple but important field observations Thirteenth International Seaweed Symposium Sandra C. Biodeterioration 7 D. R. Houghton, R.N. Smith, H.O. Eggins, 2012-12-06 Because of the magnificent response to the call for papers for the 7th International Biodeterioration Symposium held at Cambridge UK some difficulties have been experienced in the editing of these proceedings The numbers of papers submitted exceeded expectation and because of this it has been necessary to accommodate those not actually in the proceedings into the International Biodeterioration journal A small number of papers were not suitable for publication and were therefore eliminated Many authors disregarded the guidelines laid down for the length of submitted papers However every attempt has been made to accommodate the maximum number of contributions in the proceedings The original selection included those which most nearly conformed to the length requirement Even so this has meant in many cases cutting down the text eliminating tables and or illustrations and pruning the reference list When references have been trimmed a note has been included to the effect that an extended list may be obtained from the author senior author Where it was not possible to carry out these procedures without seriously altering the text and the import of the paper they have been included amongst those to be published in the journal International Biodeterioration The exceptions to the procedures outlined above are the invited review papers which have been presented in full Happily the authors have been conscientious in keeping to the guidelines laid down for these contributions
