Strategic Issues In The Economic Development Or Melanesian Agriculture:

Strategic Issues in the Economic Development of Melanesian Agriculture Euan Fleming, J. B. Hardaker, 1997

Reforming Trade Policy in Papua New Guinea and the Pacific Islands Kym Anderson, Malcolm Bosworth, 2009 The countries of the South Pacific have struggled to generate sustainable economic growth since their independence Interventionist policies have failed in the past here as they have in all other regions Business and government leaders in this region are now beginning to acknowledge as has happened in many other developing country regions over the past two decades that major reforms are needed to put their economies onto a higher growth path This study examines the growth record of key Pacific island economies and identifies the reasons for their relatively poor performance It then looks at the process of globalization that is affecting those and indeed all economies increasingly and the role the WTO has played in that process Pacific 2010 J. B. Hardaker, Euan Fleming, 1994 Part of the Pacific 2010 series which focuses on the need to plan for the long term requirements of the island states of the South Pacific Addresses strategic questions about the longer term development of Melanesian agriculture in the light of current problems and emerging trends in the environment Suggests ways of changing agriculture to become a powerful part of Melanesian economies by the year 2010 Includes a bibliography and index J Brian Hardaker is professor and head of the Department of Agricultural Economics and Business Management at the University of New England Euan Fleming is a lecturer in agricultural economies at the University of New England

Australian National Bibliography, 1998-02 Property Rights and Economic Development Toon van Meijl, Franz von Benda-Beckham, 2012-11-12 First Published in 1999 This book provides a critical analysis of the widespread assumption that the formalisation and standardisation of property rights through state legislation has a positive impact on economic development It is based on anthropological case studies of land and natural resource rights in Southeast Asia and Oceania These suggest that the economic impact of the formalisation of property rights is not necessarily positive certainly not for all categories of peoples They also suggest that state reform of property rights do not necessarily eliminate the conditions of legal pluralism but rather add new legal structures to an already complex constellation of property rights and duties The point of departure for the empirical analyses of the central hypothesis examined in this book is that the practical significance of complex forms of property rights and related socio economic practices cannot be usefully examined within formalistic one dimensional and normatively oriented legalistic or economic approaches Instead an anthropological approach to law is advocated in order to analyse the complicated multi dimensional relationships between property rights and economic development and their embeddedness in social practice Based on this approach the contributions to this book show how different people and institutions attribute different meanings to the various components of property relationships and how they use them as resources in their everyday lives and social struggles Pacific 2010 Marion Wybourn Ward, 1995 One of the monographs in a series which reports on the National Centre for Development Studies project Pacific 2010 Examines the status of women in the Solomon Islands and outlines measures underway to address women's subordination. Issues such as women and education, employment, unemployment, self-employment and work in subsistence agriculture are examined. The author argues that while women make a significant contribution to the growth and development of the economy in the Solomon Islands, sweeping changes are necessary at all levels of government to address the status of women. Includes six tables of figures and a list of references. The author is a consultant who has carried out a number of studies concerning the advancement of women in developing and developed countries and has worked in most South Pacific countries. Pacific 2010 Paul A. McGavin, 1997 Examines the growth of employment in Melanesia. Suggests that rural based development is a key factor in accelerating employment growth. Pacific Collection Acquisitions List University of Hawaii at Manoa. Library. Pacific Collection, 1999 Social Change in Melanesia Paul Sillitoe, 2000-04-13 This book first published in 2000 is a companion volume to An Introduction to the Anthropology of Melanesia 1998. It gives a clear and absorbing account of social change in Melanesia since the arrival of Europeans, covering the history of the colonial period and the new postcolonial states. Paul Sillitoe deals with economic and technological change, labour migration and urbanisation and formation of the modern state, but he also describes the sometimes violent reactions to these dramatic transformations in the form of cargo cults, secession movements and insurrections against multinational companies. He discusses development projects but brings out associated policy dilemmas, reviews developments that threaten the environment and implications for local identity such as romanticising primitive culture. This fascinating account of social change in the Pacific is addressed to students with little or no background in the region's history and development. Solomon Islands: Essential aspects of governance for Aquatic Agricultural Systems in Malaita Hub ,
