Strength In The Sharing:

Power Sharing in Deeply Divided Places Joanne McEvoy, Brendan O'Leary, 2013-04-22 Power sharing may be broadly defined as any set of arrangements that prevents one political agency or collective from monopolizing power whether temporarily or permanently Ideally such measures promote inclusiveness or at least the coexistence of divergent cultures within a state In places deeply divided by national ethnic linguistic or religious conflict power sharing is the standard prescription for reconciling antagonistic groups particularly where genocide expulsion or coerced assimilation threaten the lives and rights of minority peoples In recent history the success record of this measure is mixed Power Sharing in Deeply Divided Places features fifteen analytical studies of power sharing systems past and present as well as critical evaluations of the role of electoral systems and courts in their implementation Interdisciplinary and international in formation and execution the chapters encompass divided cities such as Belfast Jerusalem Kirkuk and Sarajevo and divided places such as Belgium Israel Palestine Northern Ireland and South Africa as well as the Holy Roman Empire the Saffavid Empire Aceh in Indonesia and the European Union Equally suitable for specialists teachers and students Power Sharing in Deeply Divided Places considers the merits and defects of an array of variant systems and provides explanations of their emergence maintenance and failings some essays offer lucid proposals targeted at particular places While this volume does not presume that power sharing is a panacea for social reconciliation it does suggest how it can help foster peace and democracy in conflict torn countries Contributors Liam Anderson Florian Bieber Scott A Bollens Benjamin Braude Ed Cairns Randall Collins Kris Deschouwer Bernard Grofman Colin Irwin Samuel Issacharoff Allison McCulloch Joanne McEvoy Brendan O Leary Philippe van Parijs Alfred Stepan Ronald Wintrobe Sharing Power, Securing Peace? Lars-Erik Cederman, Simon Hug, Julian Wucherpfennig, 2022-07-07 Does power sharing bring peace Policymakers around the world seem to think so Yet while there are many successful examples of power sharing in multi ethnic states such as Switzerland South Africa and Indonesia other instances show that such arrangements offer no guarantee against violent conflict including Rwanda Yugoslavia Zimbabwe and South Sudan Given this mixed record it is not surprising that scholars disagree as to whether power sharing actually reduces conflict Based on systematic data and innovative methods this book comes to a mostly positive conclusion by focusing on practices rather than merely formal institutions studying power sharing s preventive effect analyzing how power sharing is invoked in anticipation of conflict and by showing that territorial power sharing can be effective if combined with inclusion at the center The authors findings demonstrate that power sharing is usually the best option to reduce and prevent civil conflict in divided states Allied Strength Barrett Williams, ChatGPT, 2024-07-01 Discover the ultimate guide to rebuilding a nation fractured by the devastation of war Allied Strength delves into the intricate art of restoring a strong unified American landscape in the aftermath of World War III This comprehensive eBook offers pragmatic strategies and insightful analyses to help navigate the complexities of alliance building and collective security in a

Power-Sharing in Europe Soeren Keil, Allison McCulloch, 2020-12-15 This book evaluates the performance of consociational power sharing arrangements in Europe Under what conditions do consociational arrangements come in and out of being How do consociational arrangements work in practice The volume assesses how consociationalism is adopted how it functions and how it reforms or ends Chapters cover early adopters of consociationalism including both those which moved on to other institutional designs the Netherlands Austria as well as those that continue to use consociational processes to manage their differences Belgium Switzerland South Tyrol Also analysed are new wave cases where consociationalism was adopted after violent internal conflict Bosnia and Herzegovina Kosovo North Macedonia Northern Ireland and cases of unresolved conflict where consociationalism may yet help mediate ongoing divisions Cyprus Spain Soeren Keil is Reader in Politics and International Relations Canterbury Christ Church University United Kingdom Allison McCulloch is Associate Professor in Political Science Brandon University Canada

Mediating Power-Sharing Feargal Cochrane, Neophytos Loizides, Thibaud Bodson, 2018-01-12 This book focuses on the design and operation of power sharing in deeply divided societies Beyond this starting point it seeks to examine the different ways in which consociational institutions emerge from negotiations and peace

settlements across three counter intuitive cases post Brexit referendum Northern Ireland the Brussels Capital Region and Cyprus Across each of the chapters the analysis assesses how the design or mediation of these various forms of power sharing demonstrate similarity difference and complexity in how consociationalism has been conceived of and operated within each of these contexts Finally a key objective of the book is to explore and evaluate how ideas surrounding power sharing have evolved and changed incrementally within each of the empirical contexts The unifying argument within the book is that power sharing has to have the capacity to adapt to changing political circumstances and that this can be achieved through the interplay of formal and informal micro level refinements to these institutions and the procedures that govern them that allow such institutions to evolve over time in ways that increase their utility as conflict transformation governance structures for deeply divided societies This book fills the gap in the published literature between theoretical and empirical studies of power sharing and will be of much interest to students of peace and conflict studies consociationalism European politics and IR in general

The Orange Order Eric P. Kaufmann, 2009-04-17 Based on unprecedented access to the Order's internal documents this book provides the first systematic social history of the Orange Order the Protestant association dedicated to maintaining the British connection in Northern Ireland Kaufmann charts the Order's path from the peak of its influence in the early 1960s to its present day crisis Along the way he sketches a portrait of many of Orangeism's leading figures from ex Prime Minister John Andrews to Ulster Unionist Party politicians like Martin Smyth James Molyneaux and David McNarry and also includes the highly revealing correspondence with adversaries such as Ian Paisley and David Trimble Packed with analyses of mass membership trends and attitudes the book also takes care to tell the story of the Order from below as well as from above In the process it argues that the traditional Unionism of West Ulster is giving way to the more militant Unionism of Antrim and Belfast which is winning the hearts of the younger generation in cities and towns throughout the province

Crafting Peace Caroline A. Hartzell, Matthew Hoddie, 2015-10-29 The recent efforts to reach a settlement of the enduring and tragic conflict in Darfur demonstrate how important it is to understand what factors contribute most to the success of such efforts In this book Caroline Hartzell and Matthew Hoddie review data from all negotiated civil war settlements between 1945 and 1999 in order to identify these factors What they find is that settlements are more likely to produce an enduring peace if they involve construction of a diversity of power sharing and power dividing arrangements between former adversaries The strongest negotiated settlements prove to be those in which former rivals agree to share or divide state power across its economic military political and territorial dimensions This finding is a significant addition to the existing literature which tends to focus more on the role that third parties play in mediating and enforcing agreements Beyond the quantitative analyses the authors include a chapter comparing contrasting cases of successful and unsuccessful settlements in the Philippines and Angola respectively

Peacemaking and Peacebuilding in the Kurdistan Region of Iraq post-1998 Hawre Hasan Hama, 2025-08-30 This book argues although peace in the KRI

has lasted for over a quarter century it remains a form of negative peace due to weak institutions Achieving positive peace requires addressing political legal and security challenges It examines the factors that have shaped both the stability and fragility of peace settlements since the 1998 Washington Agreement By combining theoretical models with in depth empirical data the book explores the interplay of power sharing economic development and third party intervention arguing that these elements are pivotal to the durability of peace settlements in post conflict societies To secure a lasting and positive peace the KRI must confront deeply rooted political legal and military challenges that continue to undermine progress This includes establishing political and legal accountability and depoliticizing the Kurdish armed forces Such a transition requires not only genuine political will and committed internal reforms but also sustained international support to prevent future armed conflict and lay the foundation for a stable and prosperous KRI
