Stretch Swallow And Stare:

Stretch, Swallow & Stare Veronika Martenova Charles, 1999 Stretch was not like other people She could stretch her body taller than the tallest tree People didn't trust her because she was different That's why she lived in the forest Swallow could eat more food than anyone The villagers made fun of her because she was short and fat That's why she left town Stare's eyes were so strong they could burn through anything she looked at Everyone was afraid of her That's why she stayed alone And then there was Ira small skinny and short sighted with nobody in the world to help him search for his missing sister Somehow these four unlikely characters come together and overcome all obstacles even the most evil magic in the land Veronika Martenova Charles has drawn upon an old Czech fairy tale to create her own contemporary story about the strength of friendship and the value of being different

Notable American Women with Czechoslovak Roots Miloslav Rechcigl Jr., 2019-09-16 Even though there exist only a few general studies on the subject of Czechoslovak American women this is not at all a reflection of the paucity of work done by these women as this publication demonstrates This monograph is a compendium of notable American women with Czechoslovak roots who distinguished themselves in a particular field or area from the time they first immigrated to America to date Included are not only individuals born on the territory of former Czechoslovakia but also their descendants This project has been approached strictly geographically irrespective of the language or ethnicity Because of the lack of bibliographical information most of the monograph comprises biobibliographical information in which area a plethora of information exists As the reader will discover these women have been involved practically in every field of human endeavor in numbers that surprise On the whole they have been noted for their independent spirit and nonconforming role
