Text Of The New Testament:

The Text of New Testament B.M. Metzger, B.D. Ehrman, 1968 The Text of the New Testament J. Harold Greenlee, 2008-06-01 The Text of the New Testament is a brief introduction for the lay person into the process whereby the New Testament came to be. It describes the basics of ancient writing tools, manuscripts, the work of scribes, and how to think about differences in what the various manuscripts say. This is a revised and expanded edition with a completely new chapter on how contemporary English translations fit in with our understanding of the New Testament text. Geared to the lay person who is uninformed or confused about textual criticism, Greenlee begins this volume by explaining the production of ancient manuscripts. He then traces the history of the development of the New Testament text. Readers are next introduced to the basic principles of textual criticism, the concept of variant readings, and how to determine which variant has the greatest likelihood of being the original reading. To illustrate the basic principles, several sample New Testament texts are examined. The book concludes by putting textual criticism in perspective as involving only a minute portion of the entire New Testament text, the bulk of which is indisputably attested by the manuscripts.

The Early Text of the New Testament Charles E. Hill, Michael J. Kruger, 2012-06-14 The Early Text of the New Testament aims to examine and assess from our earliest extant sources the most primitive state of the New Testament text now known. What sort of changes did scribes make to the text? What is the quality of the text now at our disposal? What can we learn about the nature of textual transmission in the earliest centuries? In addition to exploring the textual and scribal culture of early Christianity, this volume explores the textual evidence for all the sections of the New Testament. It also examines the evidence from the earliest translations of New Testament writings and the citations or allusions to New Testament texts in other early Christian writers.

David Alan Black, Abidan Paul Shah, 2023-10-06 In recent decades the traditional definition of the original text of the New Testament NT has shifted from seeking one singular text to seeking a number of texts Instead of one authorial text now it is claimed that it could be one of several different texts based on their locations in the history of transmission preauthorial authorial canonical and postcanonical These distinctions were first listed by Eldon Epp in his article The Multivalence of the Term Original Text in New Testament Textual Criticism as predecessor autographic canonical and interpretive text forms It is apparent that with such changing definitions of the original text of the NT text critics are ambivalent regarding reaching the traditional goal of NT textual criticism Instead attention is now given towards hypothesizing regarding the emergence of the variant readings Furthermore any attempt towards utilizing text critical principles to reach the original text is looked upon as being out of date and pointless All such shifting definitions of the original text and the ensuing claims have far reaching consequences for biblical faith and praxis In this work three different scholars will present their methodologies for retrieving the original text of the NT No matter how each of the presenters evaluates the text critical evidence it is obvious that they all believe in the inerrancy and retrievability of the NT text
