Stress And Coping An Anthology 2 E Hb:

Stress and Coping Alan Monat, Richard S. Lazarus, 1991 This collection of articles on stress and coping covers stress and its effects stress and the environment the concept of coping coping with the stresses of living and dying and stress management

Theoretical Foundations of Health Education and Health Promotion Manoj Sharma, 2016-02-25 Revised and updated with the latest data from the field the Third Edition of Theoretical Foundations of Health Education and Health Promotion introduces students to common theories from behavioral and social sciences that are currently being used in health education and promotion Each discussion of theory is accompanied by a practical skill building activity in the context of planning and evaluation and a set of application questions that will assist the student in mastering the application of the theory

Making Sense of Illness Alan Radley, 1994-12-13 This book is a must read for all students of health psychology and will be of considerable interest and value to others interested in the field The discipline has not involved itself with the central issues of this book so far but Radley has now brought this material together in an accessible way offering important new perspectives and directions for the discipline This book goes a long way towards making sense for and of health psychology Journal of Health Psychology What are people's beliefs about health What do they do when they feel ill Why do they go to the doctor How do they live with chronic disease This introduction to the social psychology of health and illness addresses these and other questions about how people make sense of illness in everyday life either alone or with the help of others Alan Radley reviews findings from medical sociology health psychology and medical anthropology to demonstrate the relevance of social and psychological explanations to questions about disease and its treatment Topics covered include illness the patient and society ideas about health and staying healthy recognizing symptoms and falling ill and the healing relationship patients nurses and doctors The author also presents a critical account of related issues stress health promotion and gender differences

Beyond Biomechanics Steve Sauter, S D Moon, 2005-08-12 There is now widespread recognition that psychosocial factors play a key role in the aetiology perpetuation management and prevention of cumulative trauma disorders CTDs This text addresses the strength direction and importance of links between psychosocial factors and CTDs The book's contributors examine critically current research data identify potential link mechanisms and recommend measures for control and prevention Topics covered include socio organizational psychology medical anthropology occupational medicine rehabilitation orthopaedics job stress and ergonomic interventions The book aims to demystify the concept of the psychosocial so as to promote and assure effective prevention in the workplace

Personal Coping Bruce N. Carpenter, 1992-10-13 This volume presents current models of coping describes the coping process and relates that process to environmental factors person variables and desirable outcomes Unlike most treatments of coping which are organized around stress this volume emphasizes features of the coping process that have broad relevance across many potential stressors Although each model in the book tends to emphasize different aspects of coping the organization around models gives each chapter a theoretical focus which will be attractive to researchers and to those applying current research to applied problems such as interventions The most obvious audience is made up of researchers and scholars in the broad area of stress and coping With the emerging emphasis within applied programs on more common psychological and health problems coping theory is well suited to train students in the principles and issues relevant to everyday problems and functioning This volume is well suited to assist in such training The Transition to Middle School Leo F. Fenzel,1988

9/11: Mental Health in the Wake of Terrorist Attacks Yuval Neria,Raz Gross,Randall D. Marshall,Ezra S. Susser,2006-09-14 Does terrorism have a unique and significant emotional and behavioral impact among adults and children In what way does the impact of terrorism exceed the individual level and affect communities and specific professional groups and test different leadership styles How were professional communities of mental health clinicians policy makers and researchers mobilized to respond to the emerging needs post disaster What are the lessons learned from the work conducted after 9 11 and the implications for future disaster mental health work and preparedness efforts Yuval Neria and his team are uniquely placed to answer these questions having been involved in modifying ongoing trials and setting up new ones in New York to address these issues straight after the attacks No psychiatrist mental health professional or policy maker should be without this book Stress Robert Kugelmann,1992-09-17 Stress names a kind of grief unique to the modern period a grief perpetually unresolved evoked by the rapid and relentless changes characteristic of modernity Because our grief is always unresolved the passion of mourning is perpetually productive Stress is also a discourse a mutation of experience by the external power of speech a power that can devour what it articulates Yet it was not until World War II when the psychiatric difficulties of pilots and bombers in particular brought stress into the open that stress became a topic of medical and psychological research and a named cause of disorders The term borrows the notions of pressure and tension from the engineering world The seeds of stress are found around 1750 when the notion of luxury changed in meaning from a vice to be avoided to a virtue to be vigorously pursued Before this time human existence differed from ours in such a way that we detect no stress or anything like it The book includes a phenomenology of the experience of stress a history of the construction of engineered grief and an assessment of stress management programs Because such programs seek to make us comfortable with stress they do not move us to bring the work of grieving to a resolution This book will be of interest to post modernists phenomenologists social constructionists hermeneuticists deconstructionists social historians and medical historians Handbook of Cross-Cultural and Multicultural Personality Assessment Richard H. Dana,2000-02 Throughout the world as in the United States psychologists are increasingly being called upon to evaluate clients whose backgrounds differ from their own It has long been recognized that standard personality and psychopathology assessment instruments carry cultural biases and in recent years efforts to correct these biases have accelerated The Handbook of Cross Cultural and Multicultural Personality Assessment brings together researchers and practitioners from 12 countries with diverse ethnic and racial identities and training to present state of the art knowledge about how best to minimize cultural biases in the assessment of personality and psychopathology They consider research methodology the design and construction of standard objective and projective tests the use of measures of acculturation racial identity and culture specific tests the social etiquette of service delivery and the interpretation of test data for clinical diagnosis Ranging widely through all the relevant issues they share a common collective vision of how culturally competent services should be delivered to clients The Handbook offers the first comprehensive view of a consistent approach to cultural competence in assessment a necessary precursor of effective intervention It will become an indispensable reference for all those whose practice or research involves individuals with different ethnic and racial identities Cancer Survivors in Later Life Gary T. Deimling, 2025 Cancer has been called a disease of the elderly with advancing age as a risk factor for most cancers and half of all malignancies occurring after the age of 65 With the recent advances in medical care people are living longer after cancer treatments The number of cancer survivors is projected to reach 19 million by 2024 Cancer Survivors in Later Life blends existing research with the findings from a major National Cancer Institute funded study focusing on older adult cancer survivors and the challenges they face The book is organized into eight chapters that reflect some of the key themes in larger psycho social oncology medical oncology gerontology and family research literatures These include cancer and aging cancer survivorship in later life cancer and the social self health and quality of life functioning and disability psycho social distress adaptation appraisal and coping and altered life perspectives after cancer Within each chapter the theme introduced is discussed in terms of the prominent foundational and recent research published by those working in the field This is supplemented by findings from over 20 years of Dr Deimling s research in collaboration with colleagues at Cancer Survivors Research Program CSRP at Case Western Reserve In addition to the quantitative data presented each chapter provides narratives that draw on the lived experiences of respondents in these studies in their own words making Cancer Survivors in Later Life a multifaceted resource Readers will find it a state of the art reference for studying the key challenges older adult survivors face in terms of their health living with cancer and coping with its after effects
