Sir Robin Day Memoirs:

Two Decades in British Politics Bill Jones, Lynton J. Robins, 1992 Celebrates the 21st anniversary of The Politics Association and offers a reassessment of the continuities and changes in the governments led by Wilson Heath Callaghan and Thatcher The book asks whether 1979 was a political watershed or an undistinguished step in Britain's economic decline

Lord Gnome's Literary Companion Francis Wheen, 1994 His review has got to be in by mid day tomorrow at about 9 pm his mind will grow relatively clear and until the small hours he will sit skipping expertly through one book after another and laying each one down with the comment God what tripe Then suddenly he will snap into it All the stale old phrases a book that no one should miss something memorable on every page jump into their places like iron filings obeying the magnet Thus did George Orwell writing forty years ago in Confessions of a Book Reviewer describe the labours of a typical literary hack Precious little has changed over the intervening decades the servility of the satirical magazine Private Eye Lord Gnome's Literary Companion assembles in thematic order the best of these columns to present an astringent rude and funny survey of publishers and the published

Electing Our Masters Jon Lawrence, 2009-03-26 In this engagingly written history of electioneering in Britain from the eighteenth century to the present Jon Lawrence explores the changing relationship between politicians and public Throughout this period he argues British politics has been characterized by bruising public rituals intended to bestow legitimacy on politicians by obliging them to face an often irreverent public on broadly equal terms Face to face interaction was central both to the disorderly civic rituals of eighteenth century politics and to the Victorian and Edwardian election meeting Perhaps surprisingly it also survived in pretty rude health between the wars despite the emergence of the new mass communication media of radio and cinema But the same cannot be said of the post war era and the rise of television Today most politicians are content merely to offer the semblance of meaningful engagement walkabouts canvassing and meetings are all designed to ensure that most senior politicians come into contact only with the smiling faces of that dwindling band the party faithful Lloyd George and Churchill might have relished the rough and tumble of a tumultuous public meeting but their modern counterparts tend to be more risk averse and not without reason given that the cameras are always present to capture their mishaps But this is not another nostalgic lament for a lost golden age On the contrary Electing Our Masters argues that politicians frequently still crave the kudos to be derived from bruising encounters with an irreverent public hence Tony Blair's so called masochism strategy in the 2005 election campaign with its succession of gruelling sessions before live studio audiences As Lawrence points out the vital question for today is can we persuade our broadcasters that such encounters must form a staple of modern mediated politics The Review of the BBC's Royal Charter Great Britain: Parliament: House of Lords: Select Committee on the BBC Charter Review,2005-11 The Committee s report examines the Government s proposals for the future of the BBC as set out in the Government s Green Paper A strong BBC independent of government published by the DCMS in March 2005 for consultation The Committee s conclusions include i that the BBC s mandate and structure should be defined in statute rather than by Royal Charter ii the licence fee is the best way to fund the BBC over the next decade although the system for agreeing the cost of the fee should be more transparent with the BBC bid subject to independent investigation by the NAO iii the Government rather than the licence fee payer should fund the costs of the analogue switch off and iv the Government s proposals for reforming the governance and regulation of the BBC are confusing misguided and unworkable A further report is due to be published by the Committee in Spring 2005 which will focus on the role of the BBC in the nations and the regions the BBC World Service and the broadcasting of sport and religion
