Drymon PhD,2015-10-25 A place called Crockett s Corner began as a seventeenth century colonial settlement that grew into a stable and sustainable nineteenth century American agrarian landscape During the twentieth century in a rapid but staged process the landscape was changed into an edge city These changes were the direct result especially after 1938 of prevailing public policies which acted to constrain some land uses while supporting others Landscape change has had unintended consequences including local social network destruction historic building demolition and unmitigated air and non point source water pollution Raising awareness of the deep history of this place may help empower advocates for historic preservation open space environmental protection and more sustainable land use practices in the future

Re-made in Japan Joseph Jay Tobin,1992-01-01 Colonel Sanders Elvis Mickey Mouse and Jack Daniels have been enthusiastically embraced by Japanese consumers in recent decades But rather than simply imitate or borrow from the West the Japanese reinterpret and transform Western products and practices to suit their culture This entertaining and enlightening book shows how in the process of domesticating foreign goods and customs the Japanese have created a culture in which once exotic practices such as ballroom dancing have become familiar and once familiar practices such as public bathing have become exotic Written by scholars from anthropology sociology and the humanities the book ranges from analyses of Tokyo Disneyland and the Japanese passion for the Argentinean tango to discussions of Japanese haute couture and the search for an authentic nouvelle cuisine japonaise These topics are approached from a variety of perspectives with explorations of the interrelations of culture ideology and national identity and analyses of the roles that gender class generational and regional differences play in the patterning of Japanese consumption The result is a fascinating look at a dynamic society that is at once like and unlike our own
