Technological Response To Import Liberalization In SubSaharan Africa:

The Technological Response to Import Liberalization in SubSaharan Africa Sanjaya Lall, 1999-02-24 Many African countries liberalized in the belief that international competition would stimulate efficiency growth and technological dynamism The results are mixed but largely disappointing This book examines why looking at technological reactions to liberalization in garments and engineering in Tanzania Kenya and Zimbabwe countries with different levels of industrialisation and differing degrees of liberalization Its findings aimed at practitioners and researchers explain why the assumptions underlying liberalisation are often flawed why capabilities differ and why they lag behind other regions

Technological Response to Import Liberalization in SubSaharan Africa Sanjaya Lall, 1999 The New Development Economics Jomo K.S., Ben Fine, 2006 This volume provides a critique of the post Washington Consensus in neoliberal economics Failing to Compete Sanjaya Lall, Carlo Pietrobelli, 2002 Despite years of liberalization African manufacturing is conspicuously unable to compete in the global market Its exports are minuscule its response to competition is weak technical efficiency is low and there are few signs of technological dynamism Delivering Sustainable Growth in Africa Takahiro Fukunishi, 2013-12-17 The purpose of this book is to fill the lack of micro evidences on a structural change of African producers By collecting studies on single industries we attempt to demonstrate firms and farmers responses to the recent economic trend such as growth of demand emergence of FDI and improvement in infrastructure Flat World, Big Gaps United Nations, 2007-03 This publication sets out an empirical analysis of the impact of economic liberalisation and globalisation on inequality poverty and development including recent trends in economic growth income distribution and global inequalities and the comparative experiences of countries that have pursued different economic policies Trade Liberalisation and Poverty in South Asia Prema-chandra Athukorala, Jayatilleke S. Bandara, Saman Kelegama, 2012-05-23 The link between trade liberalisation and poverty has arguably been one of the most debated topics in development policy debate Existing studies on the subject have primarily used multi country cross sectional data and there is a growing concern about the limitations of this approach in providing a sound empirical basis for informing the policy debate These limitations point to the need for undertaking in depth analyses within individual countries over time In order to examine the connection between trade liberalisation and poverty this book provides case studies of trade policy reforms and poverty reduction outcomes of seven countries in South Asia Bangladesh Bhutan India Maldives Nepal Pakistan and Sri Lanka The South Asia region allows for an excellent comparative study given the widespread emphasis on liberalisation reforms in the region over the past two decades as well as highlighting significant inter country differences in terms of the timing and comprehensiveness of reforms and the heavy concentration of world poverty in the region This book is a useful contribution to studies on South Asia as well as International Trade and Development Economics Environment and Industry in Developing Countries Ralph Andrew Luken, Frank Van Rompaey, 2007-01-01 This impressive study compares the adoption of environmentally sound technology in industrial sectors in eight developing countries In combining a variety of quantitative and qualitative methodologies on rich empirical data the authors open the technological change black box and are able to formulate clear conclusions on the drivers and barriers for technological change A major contribution to better understanding and governing environmentally sound technological change Arthur P J Mol Wageningen University The Netherlands All theory is gray but the golden tree of life springs ever green says Goethe This book is very green that is empirical about a green topic the adoption of environmentally sound technologies in developing countries using triangulation for assessing the factors behind such choices A very nice study on an important topic Ren Kemp UNU MERIT Maastricht The Netherlands Industries located in developing countries have made major improvements in environmental performance since the Rio Earth Summit of 1992 More specifically their record in reducing energy use and water pollutant intensities has been better than developed countries This significant new book investigates what motivates industries in developing countries to adopt environmentally sound technology EST a subject about which very little is actually known The authors present the findings of a United Nations study of the factors that determined EST adoption by 105 manufacturing plants in four different sectors within eight developing countries They explore both factors internal to the plants as well as external factors including governments markets and civil society Environment and Industry in Developing Countries will be of great interest to development assistance agencies supporting programmes for industrial environmental management in developing countries and also to graduate school programmes in economic development technology management as well as in international business

The Global Political Economy of Raúl Prebisch Matias E. Margulis, 2017-03-16 The Global Political Economy of Raúl Prebisch offers an original analysis of global political economy by examining it through the ideas agency and influence of one of its most important thinkers leaders and personalities Prebisch's ground breaking ideas as an economist the terms of trade thesis and the economic case for state led industrialization changed the world and guided economic policy across the global South As the head of two UN bodies the Economic Commission for Latin America and the Caribbean ECLAC and later the United Nations Conference on Trade and Development UNCTAD he was at the frontline of key North South political struggles for a fairer global distribution of wealth and the regulation of transnational corporations Prebisch increasingly came to view political power not just economic capabilities as pivotal to shaping the institutions and rules of the world economy This book contextualizes his ideas exploring how they were used and their relevance to contemporary issues The neoliberal turn in economics in North America Western Europe and across the global South led to an active discrediting of Prebisch's theories and this volume offers an important corrective reintroducing current and future generations of scholars and students to this important body of work and allowing a richer understanding of past and ongoing political struggles

Promoting Innovation, Productivity and Industrial Growth and Reducing Poverty Maureen Mackintosh, Joanna Chataway, Marc Wuyts, 2021-04-26 Development and the ending of mass poverty require a massive increase in productive capabilities and production in developing countries Some countries notably in Asia are achieving this Yet pro poor aid policies especially for the least developed countries operate largely without reference to policy thinking on the promotion of innovation for productivity growth Conversely policy makers and researchers on innovation and industrial policies tend to know little about the potential for social protection to support innovation and productivity improvement This book aims to focus attention on this gulf between research on innovation and on poverty reduction and to identify some of its policy consequences to set out some ways in which this gulf can be bridged analytically and empirically and to contribute to the creation of an agenda for further research and an understanding of the urgency of the implied rethinking The first two chapters provide sustained arguments for embedding social policy thinking in much more productivist frameworks of thought that focus on raising productivity and employment and for identifying growth theories that can incorporate satisfactory understandings of innovation and employment upgrading A set of chapters then tackle these broad themes in the context of health addressing the interlinked issues of innovation health inequity and associated impoverishment The final set of chapters examines the challenge of creating industrial policies that generate both innovation and employment using and going beyond concepts of systems of innovation
