Tobey, 2023-11-15 Before 1930 the domestic market for electrical appliances was segmented but New Deal policies and programs created a true mass market reshaping the electrical and housing markets and guiding them toward mandated social goals The New Deal identified electrical refrigeration as a key technology to reform domestic labor raise family health and build family assets New Deal incentives led to nearly fifty percent of Title I National Housing Act loans being used to buy electric refrigerators in the 1930s New Deal policies ultimately created the mass commodity culture of home owning families that typified the conservative 1950s This title is part of UC Press's Voices Revived program which commemorates University of California Press's mission to seek out and cultivate the brightest minds and give them voice reach and impact Drawing on a backlist dating to 1893 Voices Revived makes high quality peer reviewed scholarship accessible once again using print on demand technology This title was originally published in 1996 Philosophy and Technology P.T. Durbin, F. Rapp, 2012-12-06 Only recently has the phenomenon of technology become an object of interest for philosophers The first attempts at a philosophy of technology date back scarcely a hundred years a span of time extremely short when compared with the antiquity of philosophical reflections on nature science and society Over that hundred year span speculative critical and empiricist approaches of various sorts have been put forward Nevertheless even now there remains a broad gap between the importance of technology in the real world and the sparse number of philosophical works dedicated to the understanding of modern technology As a result of the complex structure of modern technology it can be dealt with in very different ways These range from metaphysical exposition to efforts aimed at political consensus Quite naturally within such a broad range certain national accents can be discovered they are shaped by a common language accepted philosophical traditions and concrete problems requiring consideration Even so the worldwide impact of technology its penetration into all spheres of individual social and cultural life together with the urgency of the problems raised in this context all these demand a joint philosophical discussion that transcends the barriers of language and cultural differences The papers printed here are intended to exemplify such an effort at culture transcending philosophical discussion
