

TEENS WITH PHYSICAL DISABILITIES

A photograph of two teenagers in a doorway. On the left, a young woman with dark hair, wearing a pink long-sleeved shirt and blue jeans, is seated in a silver wheelchair. She is smiling and looking towards the right. On the right, a young man with dark hair, wearing a light blue t-shirt and dark pants, is standing and looking down at a book or magazine he is holding. The background shows a doorway leading into a brightly lit interior space.

Teens With Physical Disabilities Reallife Stories Of Meeting The Challenges:

Using Literature to Help Troubled Teenagers Cope with Health Issues Cynthia Ann Bowman, 2000-03-30 Today traditional illnesses and high risk behaviors of adolescents have become interrelated through the multitude of physical social and emotional changes young people experience Good literature which gives adolescents the truth has incredible power to heal and to renew This reference resource provides a link for teachers media specialists parents and other adults to those novels that can help adolescents struggling with health issues Educators and therapists explore novels where common health issues are addressed in ways to captivate teens Using fictional characters these experts provide guidance on encouraging adolescents to cope while improving their reading and writing skills With the advancement in medicine traditional types of health issues such as birth defects cancer and sensory impairment have shifted to more behavior related problems such as depression alcoholism and eating disorders All of these issues and others are examined from both a literary and psychological perspective in thirteen chapters that explore health issues through fiction Each chapter confronts a different health issue and is written by a literature specialist who has teamed up with a therapist In each novel these experts define the central character's struggle in coming to terms with an issue and growing in response to their difficulties Annotated bibliographies of other works both fiction and nonfiction explore these same issues give readers insight into helping teenagers with similar problems and provide the tools with which to get teenagers reading and addressing these problems

Using Literature to Help Troubled Teenagers Cope with Identity Issues Jeffrey S. Kaplan, 1999-11-30 The search for one's identity is an ancient quest reflected throughout history in stories where human glory and conquest are often layered with great pain and self doubt meant to help people discover themselves and who they are Today this quest is found prevalently in young adult novels where characters wrestle with modern dilemmas in order to find themselves This reference resource provides a link for teachers media specialists parents and other adults to those novels and how to use them effectively Educators and therapists explore the literature where common identity issues are addressed in ways intriguing to teens Using fictional characters these experts provide guidance on how to encourage adolescents to cope while improving their reading and writing skills Twelve novels are examined from both a literary and psychological perspective allowing the readers to meet the central figures as if they were living human beings Each chapter is written by a literature specialist who has teamed up with a therapist and confronts a different identity issue examining such dilemmas as body image the father son relationship bigotry and peer relations This pair of experts tries to define the central character's struggle in each novel to discover who they are and to become self actualized individuals Each chapter also provides an annotated bibliography of other works both fiction and nonfiction that explore these same issues to give readers not only the insight into helping teenagers with similar problems but also the tools with which to get teenagers reading and addressing these problems This innovative approach is meant to provide the opportunity for adults and adolescents to better understand each other
