Telecommunications In Developing Countries The Challenge From Brazil:

Telecommunications in Developing Countries Michael Hobday, 2023-12-22 Telecommunications in Developing Countries 1990 stresses the importance of modern micro electronics based telecommunications for developing economies in providing a basic communications infrastructure for economic and industrial development and the springboard for new information technology activities Although progress in telecommunications has so far been concentrated in the most advanced regions of the world some developing countries can bypass older less efficient forms of telecommunications and go straight to microelectronic technology This book is the first to examine the challenges and difficulties facing developing countries in this field extending existing theories of technology transfer and diffusion Michael Hobday offers an explanation of the forces for change in the telecommunications industry He then examines Brazil s experience in telecommunications from developing the technology and building up a modern infrastructure to controlling multinational suppliers of equipment Dr Hobday explains why Brazil s efforts in this area have succeeded and offers lessons for other developing countries

Telecommunications in Latin America Eli M. Noam, 1998 Bringing together experts on Latin American countries and providing a comprehensive view of what individual countries are doing to build a telecommunications capability Telecommunications in Latin America addresses the complicated economic and policy issues of each country s telecommunications The editor and his staff have skillfully integrated the chapters into a coherent volume keeping the information accessible to non specialists Particular attention is paid to telecommunications as a link in the chain of the regional development process and to the privatization process that has swept across the subcontinent This study will be of interest to students and professionals in the areas of communication international telecommunications companies and country governments in Latin America Development Centre Studies Competition, Innovation and Competitiveness in Developing Countries Krieger Mytelka Lynn, 1999-08-26 This book therefore opens a fresh debate on the industrial policies which developing countries need to adopt in order to compete and grow in a globalised economic environment

Technology and Innovation in the International Economy Charles Cooper, 1994 The two major review essays Jeffrey James on microelectronic technology and Martin Fransman on biotechnology assess the impact of these new technologies on production trade employment and welfare in developing countries World Development Report 1994, 1994 World Development Report 1994 examines the link between infrastructure and development and explores ways in which developing countries can improve both the provision and the quality of infrastructure services In recent decades developing countries have made substantial investments in infrastructure achieving dramatic gains for households and producers by expanding their access to services such as safe water sanitation electric power telecommunications and transport Even more infrastructure investment and expansion are needed in order to extend the reach of services especially to people living in rural areas and to the poor But as this report shows the quantity of investment cannot be the exclusive focus of policy

Improving the quality of infrastructure service also is vital Both quantity and quality improvements are essential to modernize and diversify production help countries compete internationally and accommodate rapid urbanization The report identifies the basic cause of poor past performance as inadequate institutional incentives for improving the provision of infrastructure To promote more efficient and responsive service delivery incentives need to be changed through commercial management competition and user involvement Several trends are helping to improve the performance of infrastructure First innovation in technology and in the regulatory management of markets makes more diversity possible in the supply of services Second an evaluation of the role of government is leading to a shift from direct government provision of services to increasing private sector provision and recent experience in many countries with public private partnerships is highlighting new ways to increase efficiency and expand services Third increased concern about social and environmental sustainability has heightened public interest in infrastructure design and performance

National Strategic Planning and Practice Liaquat Hossain, 2017-11-22 This title was first published in 2001 This text explores the relationship between telecommunications strategic planning process TSPP the organization and the environment for developing an understanding of the idea of a national TSPP NTSP in Thailand The overall aim is to explore an understanding of an NTSP by providing a detailed study of the strategic planning and practices of the Thai telecom regulators during the period from 1954 to 1996 It applies the strategic planning process principles to further the understanding of NTSP in Thailand By using the SPP framework the study develops a theoretical TSPP framework for analyzing the underlying TSPP strategies within the national telecom regulators in Thailand It also seeks to illustrate the limitations of the traditional strategic planning theory when applied to NTSP From a theoretical perspective this book illustrates that a lack of formalization and consensus in Thailand s NTSP is the fundamental backlog for the successful operation of its industry

Telecommunication Industry in Brazil Maria Ines Bastos, 1995 Hi-Tech for Industrial Development Jose E. Cassiolato, Hubert Schmitz, 2002-01-31 Based on original research this book focuses on the importance of the producer user connection the changing balance between national and foreign firms and the need for learning in industry and government

Building Telecom Markets Whasun Jho, 2013-08-27 The mobile telecommunication industry has been one of the fastest growing industries in the global economy since the late 1990s As the first country to offer commercial Code Division Multiple Access CDMA cellular service in the world Korea was able to jump right into the digital mobile markets enhancing its status as a leading manufacturer of mobile equipment While the growth of the telecom industry occurred with the emergence of worldwide market oriented regulatory reform and liberalization in telecommunications the state market relationship in Korea evolved from state monopoly toward centralized governance and later toward flexible governance which is substantially different from liberal governance of the US This book examines the uniqueness of Korean regulatory reforms of the mobile telecommunication sector and argues that the market oriented regulatory reform and liberalization should be explained by focusing on the interactions among the state the private sector and international political economic environment It will appeal to scholars and policy makers alike concerned with market regulation Asian development and political economy New Directions in Telecommunications
