Jeremy Cohen, Timothy Gleason

Television And Children A Special Medium For A Special Audience The Sage Commtext Series:

Television and Children Aimee Dorr, 1986-04 Aimee Dorr examines children's interaction with television emphasizing the child's active role in making sense of television. She discusses specific examples of programmes watched by children, the sense they make of advertising and programming, what children know about the medium, what a formal feature is, what effects television can have, how effects are studied, and what literacy curricula look like. The Research Process Myrtle S.

Bolner, Gayle A. Poirier, 2004 Social Research in Communication and Law Jeremy Cohen, Timothy Gleason, 1990 It is not unusual for communication and media researchers to study law or legal issues, nor is it uncommon for legal scholars to study communication law. But it is something of a departure for the two to come together as has been accomplished in this innovative volume. Social Research in Communication and Law is a practical guide for conducting research involving both legal and communication questions. Offering rich citations and examples from existing literature, this engaging volume shows communication law scholars how to make more effective use of the methodologies employed in communication science. Topics addressed include reconciling communication and law, social research approaches to libel, and theories pertaining to freedom of Media Reception Jørgen Bang, 1993 The British Library General Catalogue of Printed Books, 1986 to 1987

British Library, 1988 Television and Children Aimee Dorr, 1986 Prime-Time Television Muriel G. Cantor, Joel M. Cantor, 1992 Using multiple methods, the authors of this classic text, now in its Second Edition, present a broad historical and systematic model showing the interaction of the various social, legal, economic, political, and organizational factors which ultimately lead to the evening network fare in the United States. The book discusses fundamental changes in television, including production and distribution, the loss of viewers to cable and video, the reduction of television regulations, and the contraction of segments of viewing audiences. A look at television drama as both an economic commodity and a cultural construct reveals the creative struggle and financial negotiations among a variety of different sectors. The Television

News Interview Akiba A. Cohen, 1987-06 How and why does television news interviewing differ from country to country? In this comparative study of the news in the UK, the US, Israel, and West Germany, Cohen shows that while the structure and content of TV news is very similar, interviews reflect political, social, and cultural factors. Cohen examines news interviewing from theoretical, empirical, and practical perspectives. Through a comprehensive literature review, content analysis, and personal interviews with reporters, he demonstrates that news interviews should be viewed as social constructs. Publisher description Movies as Mass Communication Garth S. Jowett, James M. Linton, 1989-09 Since the publication of the first edition of Movies as Mass Communication in 1980, cinema has been incorporated into academic discussions of the mainstream mass media. Most introductory media and society courses now include a section on the cinema. In this second edition, Professors Jowett and Linton address both the persistent tendency to position the cinema as a separate form of entertainment with a specialized audience and the extensive interrelationships between the cinema and other media. The authors also examine the economic sociological psychological and political aspects of film Television in America George Comstock, 1991-08-12 This new substantially revised edition of a classic text on television features updated statistics issues and topics including descriptions and analysis of emerging technologies The author synthesizes three decades of empirical research theory and speculative extrapolation to examine the political social and economic forces shaping television There is explicit historical coverage of the development of the three major programming genres entertainment news and sports and of television as a whole in terms of distinctive major technological developments competitive forces audience behaviour and programming
