Internationalization of the Chinese TV Sector Manfred Kops,Stefan Ollig,2007 In this reader media experts discuss the prospects and problems of program exchange between German and Chinese Broadcasters They explain that program exchange is not the cockaigne one could assume with regard to the non rivalry of media content and the huge Chinese TV market more than 300 million TV households and an estimated 180 000 hours of weekly broadcast time across all TV platforms but that many economic peculiarities of the media that only can be read in the footnotes of economic text books are highly relevant in practice To trade TV programs with China thus requires a solid knowledge about the TV business in general but also about the Chinese media order and the Chinese society and the Chinese way of business Yearbook Music Educators National Conference (U.S.),1928 Broadcasting Yearbook ,1941 TV China Ying Zhu,Chris Berry,2009-01-28 If radio and film were the emblematic media of the Maoist era television has rapidly established itself as the medium of the marketized China and in the diaspora In less than two decades television has become the dominant medium across the Chinese cultural world TV China is the first anthology in English on this phenomenon Covering the People s Republic Hong Kong Taiwan and the Chinese diaspora these 12 original essays introduce and analyze the Chinese television industry its programming the policies shaping it and its audiences RADIO ANNUAL AND TELEVISION YEARBOOK, 1955 (CLASSIC REPRINT). JACK. ALICOATE,2022 2006-2007 Li Yuming,Li Wei,2013-03-22 China with the world s largest population numerous ethnic groups and vast geographical space is also rich in languages Since 2006 China s State Language Commission has been publishing annual reports on what is called language life in China These reports cover language policy and planning initiatives at the national provincial and local levels new trends in language use in a variety of social domains and major events concerning languages in mainland China Hong Kong Macau and Taiwan Now for the first time these reports are available in English for anyone interested in Chinese language and linguistics China's language education and social policies as well as everyday language use among the ordinary people in China The invaluable data contained in these reports provide an essential reference to researchers professionals policy makers and China watchers Writing for Television, 1994

Television Regulation and Media Policy in China Yik-Chan Chin, 2016-08-12 Since the late 1990s there has been a crucial and substantial transformation in China's television system involving institutional structural and regulatory changes Unravelling the implications of these changes is vital for understanding the politics of Chinese media policy making and regulation and thus a comprehensive study of this history has never been more essential This book studies the transformation of the policy and regulation of the Chinese television sector within a national political and economic context from 1996 to the present day Taking a historical and sociological approach it engages in the theoretical debates over the nature of the transformation of media in the authoritarian Chinese state the implications of the ruling party's political legitimacy and China's central local conflicts upon television policy making and market structure and the nature of the media modernisation process in a developing country Its case studies include broadcasting systems in Shanghai and Guangdong which demonstrate that varied policies and development strategies have been adopted by television stations reflecting different local circumstances and needs Arguing that rather than being a homogenous entity China has demonstrated substantial local diversity and complex interactions between local national and global media this book will be of interest to students and scholars of Chinese media politics and policy and international communications
