A person wearing a white protective suit and a clear face shield helmet stands in the center of the frame. The background is dark and filled with a thick, blue-grey smoke or mist, creating a dramatic and mysterious atmosphere. The person's face is visible through the helmet's visor, and they appear to be looking directly at the camera.

clearly underscores the event's status as premier international meeting in the domain. It thereby confirms the decision taken by the Constituting Committee of the conference series to take the step forward out of the national cocoons of its precursors ICVS and TIDSE and towards an itinerant platform reflecting its global constituency. This move reflects the desire and the will to take on the challenge to stay on the lookout critically reflect upon and integrate views and ideas, findings and experiences and to promote interdisciplinary exchange while ensuring overall coherence and maintaining a sense of direction. This is a significant enterprise. The challenges sought are multifarious and must be addressed consistently at all levels. The desire to involve all research communities and stakeholders must be matched by acknowledging the differences in established practises and by providing suitable means of guidance and introduction, exposition and direct interaction at the event itself and of lasting and increasingly living documentation of which the present proceedings are but an important part.

InnoScope: 2011 TTGV, 2012-01-01 Aging and the Meaning of Time Susan McFadden, Robert Atchley, 2006-05-03 As we confront our own mortality we might ask: What has my long life meant and how have the years shaped me or How long must I suffer? Such questions reflect time consciousness, the focus of this classic volume. The authors from diverse disciplines in gerontology act as guides in the exploration of the realms of time in later life and their meanings. As they examine how the study of time can give new meanings to aging, they also consider the religious and spiritual questions raised when human beings consider the temporal boundaries of life. This volume honors Melvin Kimble's contributions to gerontology and represents a new direction in the study of religion, spirituality and aging.
