Dawkins,2021-08-31 A new conception of housing justice grounded in moral principles that appeal to the home s special connection to American life In response to the twin crises of homelessness and housing insecurity an emerging housing justice coalition argues that America s apparent inability to provide decent housing for all is a moral failing Yet if housing is a right as housing justice advocates contend what is the content of that right In a wide ranging examination of these issues Casey Dawkins chronicles the concept of housing justice investigates the moral foundations of the US housing reform tradition and proposes a new conception of housing justice that is grounded in moral principles that appeal to the home s special connection to American life Dawkins examines the conceptual foundations of justice and explores the social meaning of the American home He chronicles the evolution of American housing reform showing how housing policy was pieced together from layers of housing and land use policies enacted over time and investigates the endurance from the founding of the republic through the postwar era of the owned single family home as the embodiment of national values Finally Dawkins considers housing justice drawing on elements of liberalism republicanism progressivism and pragmatism to defend a right based conception of housing justice grounded in the ideal of civil equality Arguing that any defense of private property must appeal to the interests of those whose tenure is made insecure by the institution of private property he proposes a secure tenure property regime and a negative housing tax that would fund a guaranteed housing allowance
