The Kid A Dogs Life:

Futurescapes Ralph Pordzik, 2009 This book testifies to the growing interest in the many spaces of utopia. It intends to map out on utopian and science fiction discourses some of the new and revisionist models of spatial analysis applied in Literary and Cultural Studies in recent years. The aim of the volume is to side step the established generic binary of utopia and dystopia or science fiction and thus to open the analysis of utopian literature to new lines of inquiry. The essays collected here propose to think of utopias not so much as fictional texts about future change and transformation but as vital elements in a cultural process through which social spatial and subjective identities are formed. Utopias can thus be read as textual systems implying a distinct spatial and temporal dimension as spatial practices that tend to naturalize a cultural and social construction that of the good life, the radically improved welfare state, the Christian paradise, the counter society etc. and make that representation operational by interpellating their readers in some determinate relation to their givenness as sites of political and individual improvement. This volume is of interest for all scholars and students of literature who wish to explore the ways in which utopias of the past and recent present have circulated as media of cultural exchange and homogenization as sites of cultural and linguistic appropriation and as foci for the spatial formation of national and regional identities in the English speaking world.

Chaplin's War Trilogy Wes D. Gehring, 2014-09-18 The book examines Charlie Chaplin's evolving perspective on dark comedy in his three war films Shoulder Arms 1918, The Great Dictator 1940 and Monsieur Verdoux 1947. In the first he uses the genre in a groundbreaking manner but yet for a pro war cause. In Dictator dark comedy is applied in an antiwar way. In Monsieur Verdoux Chaplin embraces the genre as an individual in defense against a society out to destroy him. All three are pivotal films in the development of the genre in film with the latter two movies being very controversial for their time.
