DHHS Publication No. (NIH). ,1982      Aging and Technological Advances Pauline K. Robinson,Judy Livingston,James E. Birren,2012-12-06 The chapters and reports in this publication have been selected from presentations at a Symposium on Aging and Technological Advances held in August 1983 at the Ethel Percy Andrus Gerontology Center of the University of Southern California The Symposium was made possible by a grant from the NATO Special Programme Panel on Human Factors and the support of this program is gratefully acknowledged Members of the Symposium Advisory Board were James E Birren Judy Livingston Erhard Olbrich Victor Regnier Pauline Robinson Thomas Singleton Arnold Small Harvey Sterns and Alvar Svanborg Professor Lambros Houssiadis also provided invaluable encouragement Appreciation is also extended to the Andrew Norman Institute for Advanced Study in Gerontology and Geriatrics for support of planning activities leading up to the Symposium and for support of events surrounding the Symposium itself A generous gift from The UPS Foundation to the Ethel Percy Andrus Gerontology Center made possible the compilation editing and preparation of this manuscript and helped to support Symposium activities We thank David Bergstone and Mary Margaret Ragan who together carefully and skillfully organized and carried out the typing of the manuscript      Methodology of the Evaluation of Psychotropic Drugs Otto

Benkert,Wolfgang Maier,Karl Rickels,2012-12-06 The idea of placebo controlled drug trials and the advent of test statistics during the first part of this century were the major milestones in the establishment of a convincing methodology for demonstrating the efficacy of treatments The first tricyclic and neuroleptic drugs were tested for their efficacy in psychiatric disorders along the lines of these methodological developments but subsequent trials with psychotropic drugs did not adhere to these principles to the same extent because it became difficult to justify placebo controlled trials once effective treatments had been established Consequently the second generation of antidepressants and neuroleptics since the early 1960s were mainly tested in Europe at least in samples of patients using trials controlled by standard treatment only and the methodological basis of these second generation trials became fragile as will be demonstrated by several papers in this book This development did not provoke much discussion until recently when scientific and administrative interest in the methodology of the evaluation of psychotropic drugs increased substantially A series of factors contribute to the growing interest in the standards of psychotropic drug trials 1 The proportion of psychiatric patients resistant to treatment is growing the efficacy of well established forms of treatment therefore seems to be limited 2 A series of psychotropic drugs were withdrawn from the market mainly because they caused serious side effects The efficacy and safety of these drugs had previously been demonstrated in drug trials which raised the question whether the drug trials carried out were well designed
