Social Change And Adaptation In The Pacific Islands:

Social Change and Psychosocial Adaptation in the Pacific Islands Anthony J. Marsella, Ayda Aukahi Austin, Bruce Grant, 2006-05-31 The Pacific Island oceanic and rim nations include many traditional societies and emerging nations that have experienced abusive histories of colonization exploitation and social change and upheaval Their peoples are struggling to restore traditional cultural heritages and identities in a world community dominated by Western values and lifestyles The conflicts uncertainties and instability of this transitional time are reflected in these populations current social and psychological difficulties This volume is one of the few devoted to these issues and covering a range of problems including substance abuse hopelessness violence crime abuse juvenile delinquency suicide and AIDS Social Change and

Psychosocial Adaptation in the Pacific Islands Anthony J. Marsella, Ayda Aukahi Austin, Bruce Grant, 2008-11-01 Family Violence and Social Change in the Pacific Islands Lois Bastide, Denis Regnier, 2022-09-23 The Pacific Islands have some of the highest rates of family violence in the world Addressing the contemporary mutations of Pacific Island families and the shifting understandings of violence in the context of rapid social change this book investigates the conflict dynamics generated by these transformations The contributors draw from detailed case studies in a range of Pacific territories to examine family violence in relation to the social economic and political situation of native populations as well as individual collective and institutional responses to the development of violence within and upon the family They focus on vernacular understandings conflicting social norms the emergence of different types of violent patterns the impact of violence on individuals and communities and local attempts at mitigating or combating it Combining ethnographic expertise with engaged scholarship this volume offers a vivid account of ongoing social change in Pacific Island societies and a crucial contribution to the understanding of family violence as a social process cultural construct and political issue This book will appeal to scholars with interests in the sociology of violence and the family Pacific studies development studies and the social and cultural anthropology of Oceania Environmental Change and the World's Futures Jonathan Paul Marshall, Linda

H. Connor, 2015-08-27 Climate change and ecological instability have the potential to disrupt human societies and their futures Cultural social and ethical life in all societies is directed towards a future that can never be observed and never be directly acted upon and yet is always interacting with us Thinking and acting towards the future involves efforts of imagination that are linked to our sense of being in the world and the ecological pressures we experience The three key ideas of this book ecologies ontologies and mythologies help us understand the ways people in many different societies attempt to predict and shape their futures Each chapter places a different emphasis on the linked domains of environmental change embodied experience myth and fantasy politics technology and intellectual reflection in relation to imagined futures The diverse geographic scope of the chapters includes rural Nepal the islands of the Pacific Ocean Sweden coastal Scotland North America and remote rural and urban Australia This book will appeal to researchers and students in anthropology sociology environmental studies cultural studies psychology and politics      Resilience in the Pacific and the Caribbean Simon Hollis, 2020-10-26 This book critically examines the global diffusion and local reception of resilience through the implementation of Disaster Risk Reduction DRR programmes in Pacific and Caribbean island states Global efforts to strengthen local disaster resilience capacities have become a staple of international development activity in recent decades yet the successful implementation of DRR projects designed to strengthen local resilience remains elusive While there are pockets of success a gap remains between global expectations and local realities Through a critical realist study of global and local worldviews of resilience in the Pacific and Caribbean islands this book argues that the global advocacy of DRR remains inadequate because of a failure to prioritise a person orientated ethics in its conceptualization of disaster resilience This regional comparison provides a valuable lens to understand the underlying social structures that makes resilience possible and the extent to which local governments communities and persons interpret and modify their behaviour on risk when faced with the global message on resilience This book will be of much interest to students of resilience risk management development studies and area studies      The Global Health Care Chain John Connell, 2008-12-12 This book provides the first detailed analysis of the growing phenomenon of the international migration of skilled health workers and reveals its exceptional significance for both sending and receiving countries      Internalized Oppression Eric John Ramos David, 2013-12-09 Print CourseSmart      Migration and Development in the South Pacific John Connell, 1990

Comparing Cultures Michael Schnegg, Edward D. Lowe, 2020-05-28 A new and important contribution to the re emergent field of comparative anthropology this book argues that comparative ethnographic methods are essential for more contextually sophisticated accounts of a number of pressing human concerns today The book includes expert accounts from an international team of scholars showing how these methods can be used to illuminate important theoretical and practical projects Illustrated with examples of successful inter disciplinary projects it highlights the challenges benefits and innovative strategies involved in working collaboratively across disciplines Through its focus on practical methodological and logistical accounts it will be of value to both seasoned researchers who seek practical models for conducting their own cutting edge comparative research and to teachers and students who are looking for first person accounts of comparative ethnographic research      Violence in Pacific Islander Traditional Religions Garry Trompf, 2022-01-27 An Element on the role of violence in the traditional religions of the Pacific Islands Melanesia Micronesia and Polynesia and on violent activity in islander religious life after the opening of Oceania to the modern world This work covers such issues as tribal warfare sorcery and witchcraft traditional punishment and gender imbalance and moves on to consider reprisals against foreign intruders in the Pacific and the continuation of old types of violence in spite of massive socio religious change      The Routledge Handbook of Environmental Movements Maria Grasso, Marco Giugni, 2022-01-31 This handbook provides readers with up to date knowledge on environmental movements and activism and is a reference point for international work in the field It offers an assessment of environmental movements in different regions of the world macrostructural conditions and processes underlying their mobilization the microstructural and social psychological dimensions of environmental movements and activism and current trends as well as prospects for environmental movements and social change The handbook provides critical reviews and appraisals of the current state of the art and future development of conceptual and theoretical approaches as well as empirical knowledge and understanding of environmental movements and activism It encourages dialogue across the disciplinary barriers between social movement studies and other perspectives and reflects upon the causes and consequences of citizens participation in environmental movements and activities The volume brings historical studies of environmentalism sociological analyses of the social composition of participants in and sympathizers of environmental movements investigations by political scientists on the conditions and processes underlying environmental movements and activism and other disciplinary inquiries together while keeping a clear focus within social movement theory and research as the main lines of inquiry The handbook is an essential guide and reference point not only for researchers but also for undergraduate and graduate teaching and for policymakers and activists Chapter 6 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons CC BY NC ND 4.0 license

Genz, 2018-02-28 On the atoll of Rongelap in the northern seas of the Marshall Islands apprentice navigators once learned to find their way across the ocean by remotely sensing how islands transform the patterning of swell and currents Renowned for their instructional stick charts that model and map the interplay of islands and waves these students of wave piloting techniques embarked on trial voyages to ruprup jo kur a Marshallese expression roughly translated as breaking the shell of the turtle which would confer their status as navigators These traditional practices already in decline with imposing colonial occupations came to an abrupt halt with the Cold War era nuclear weapons testing program conducted by the United States. The residents and their descendants are still trying to recover from the myriad environmental biological social and psychological impacts of the nuclear tests. Breaking the Shell presents the journey of Captain Korent Joel who having been forced into exile from the near apocalyptic thermonuclear Bravo test of 1954 has reconnected to his ancestral maritime heritage and forged an unprecedented path toward becoming a navigator. Paralleling the Hawaiian renaissance that centered on Nainoa Thompson learning from Satawalese navigator Mau Piailug the beginnings of the Marshallese voyaging revitalization a collaborative community based project spanning the fields of anthropology history and oceanography involved blending scientific knowledge systems resolving ambivalence in nearly forgotten navigational techniques and deftly negotiating cultural protocols of knowledge use and transmission. Through Captain Korent's own voyaging trial he and a group of surviving mariners from Rongelap are against one of the darkest hours in human history breaking the shell of their prime identity as nuclear refugees to begin recovering their most intimate of connections to the sea. Ultimately these efforts would inaugurate the return of the traditional outrigger voyaging canoe for the greater Marshallese nation an achievement that may work toward easing ethnic tensions abroad and ensure cultural survival in their battle against the looming climate change induced rising ocean. Drawing attention to cultural rediscovery revitalization and resilience in Oceania the Marshallese are once again celebrating their existence as a people born to the rhythms of the sea. Combatting Climate Change in the Pacific Marc Williams, Duncan McDuie-Ra, 2017-12-12 This book analyses the regional complexes of climate security in the Pacific. Pacific Island States and Territories (PICTs) have long been cast as the frontline of climate change and placed within the grand architecture of global climate governance. The region provides compelling new insights into the ways climate change is constructed governed and shaped by and in turn shapes regional and global climate politics. By focusing on climate security as it is constructed in the Pacific and how this concept mobilises resources and shapes the implementation of climate finance the book provides an up to date account of the way regional organizations in the Pacific have contributed to the search for solutions to the problem of climate insecurity. In the context of the United Nations Climate Change Conference COP21 in Paris in 2015 the focus of this book on regional governance offers a concise and innovative account of climate politics in the prevailing global context and one with implications for the study of climate security in other regions particularly in the developing world. Participatory Media in Environmental Communication Usha Sundar

Harris, 2018-09-13 Participatory Media in Environmental Communication brings together stories of communities in the Pacific islands a region that is severely affected by the impacts of climate change. Despite living on the margins of the digital revolution these island communities have used media and communication to create awareness of and find solutions to environmental challenges. By telling their stories in their own way ordinary people are able to communicate compelling accounts of how different but interrelated environmental political and economic issues converge and impact at a local level.

This book fills a significant gap in our understanding of how participatory media is used as a dialogic tool to raise awareness and facilitate discussion of environmental issues that are now critical. It includes a section on pedagogy and practice, the undergirding principles, the tools, the methods. The book offers a framework for Participatory Environmental Communication that weaves three widely used concepts: diversity, network, and agency into a cohesive underlying system to bring scholars, practitioners, and diverse communities together in a dialogue about pressing environmental issues. This book is a valuable resource for researchers and students in communication and media studies, environmental communication, cultural studies, and environmental sciences, as well as practitioners, policy makers, and environmental activists. Old Ways for New Days Melissa Nursey-Bray, Robert Palmer, Ann Marie Chischilly, Phil Rist, Lun Yin, 2022-09-01. This Open Access book provides a critical reflection into how indigenous cultures are attempting to adapt to climate change. Through detailed first-hand accounts, the book describes the unique challenges facing indigenous peoples in the context of climate change adaptation, governance, communication strategies, and institutional pressures. The book shows how current climate change terminologies and communication strategies often perpetuate the marginalisation of indigenous peoples and suggests that new approaches that prioritise Indigenous voices, agency, and survival are required. The book first introduces readers to Indigenous peoples and their struggles related to climate change, describing the impacts of climate change on their everyday lives and the adaptation strategies currently undertaken to address them. These strategies are then detailed through case studies which focus on how Indigenous knowledge and practices have been used to respond to and cope with climate change in a variety of environments, including urban settings. The book discusses specific governance challenges facing Indigenous peoples and presents new methods for engagement that will bridge existing communication gaps to ensure Indigenous peoples are central to the implementation of climate change adaptation measures. This book is intended for an audience of Indigenous peoples, adaptation practitioners, academics, students, policy makers, and government workers. The Routledge Handbook of Property, Law and Society Nicole Graham, Margaret Davies, Lee Godden, 2022-11-14. This handbook brings together diverse perspectives, major topics, and multiple approaches to one of the biggest legal institutions in society: property. Property touches on many fundamental human questions. It involves decisions about power, economy, morality, work, and ecology. It also involves ideas about where humans fit in the world and how humans relate to more than human life. This book will ask in myriad ways such questions as: what property means, what kinds of property there are, what is and should be the relationship between owner and owned, and what is the impact of different forms of property on life in this world. Drawing on a range of socio-legal and empirical methodologies, renowned scholars and rising stars in property from around the world present current issues and map future directions in research. Coming from the place of law but reaching out through cognate disciplines, this handbook provides a comprehensive and accessible survey of current research at the interface of property, society, and the environment. This handbook will appeal to students and researchers across a range of disciplines, including
