special issue of the journal Business History Equivocal City Patrick Coleman, 2018-10-30 The study of Montreal as a specific location in French and English writings has long been subordinated to the demands of linguistically divided and politically contentious narratives about national development In this cross linguistic study Patrick Coleman models an inclusive and post national literary history of the city itself Tracing a sequence of moments in the emergence of the Montreal novel from World War II to the turbulent 1960s Equivocal City offers close readings of fourteen key works of fiction focusing on the inner dynamic of their construction as well as the unexpected convergences and contrasts in the narrative structures they adopt and the aesthetic perspective they seek to achieve Critically sophisticated but accessibly written this book gives a sympathetic account of how writers in both languages struggled to give integrated artistic expression to their experience of a city that was still linguistically compartmentalized and culturally insecure By analyzing the interplay between story and narrative form the book explores what French and English novelists could and could not imagine about the Montreal they sought to portray From the responsible realism of Hugh MacLennan and Gabrielle Roy to the fractious phantasmagorias of Jacques Ferron and Leonard Cohen Equivocal City traces the evolution of the Montreal novel with the aim of retrieving a shareable literary past Racial Attitudes in English-Canadian Fiction, 1905-1980 Terrence Craig, 2010-10-30 Racial Attitudes in English Canadian Fiction is a critical overview of the appearances and consequences of racism in English Canadian fiction published between 1905 and 1980 Based on an analysis of traditional expressions in literature of group solidarity and resentment the study screens English Canadian novels for fictional representations of such feelings Beginning with the English Canadian reaction to the mass influx of immigrants into Western Canada after World War One it examines the fiction of novelists such as Ralph Connor and Nellie McClung The author then suggests that the cumulative effect of a number of individual voices such as Grove and Salverson constituted a counter reaction which has been made more positive by Laurence Lyenko Richler and Clarke The debate between these two sides carried on in fictional and non fictional writing is seen to be in part resolved in synthesis after World War Two as attitudes are forced by wartime alliances and intellectual pressures into a qualified liberalism The author shows how single novels by Graham Bodsworth and Callaghan demonstrated a new concern for the exposure and eradication of racial discrimination an attitude taken further by the works of Wiebe and Klein The book concentrates on single texts that best portray deliberately or not racist ideology or anti racist arguments and attempts to explain the arousal in Canada of such ideas Contemporary Jewish Writing in Canada Michael Greenstein, 2004-01-01 Contemporary Jewish Writing in Canada brings together important and innovative works from modern Jewish writers living in Canada This anthology presents a variety of male and female voices both established and new some translated from French or Yiddish Caught between a conservative British tradition and an aggressive American influence with a long immigrant history Canadian Jewish literature has charted a unique intermediate course The largest community of Jewish writers in Canada can be found in Montreal where a vibrant Yiddish culture has flourished surrounded by a Francophone majority Beginning with A M Klein and carrying through the works of Leonard Cohen and Mordecai Richler Jewish writing in Montreal has adapted to changing political and linguistic pressures over the course of the twentieth century A number of Jewish authors in this anthology write in French and are involved in translation not just of language but of cultural values as well The second largest concentration of Jewish writers in Canada is in Winnipeg and the western part of the country where Jewish communities have strong Yiddish and socialist roots A generation of younger writers however have shifted from these earlier centers to Toronto where they form part of a multicultural mosaic blending Jewish Canadian and cosmopolitan values From Anne Michaels's Greek island to Aryeh Lev Stollman's Berlin and Michael Redhill's Irish synagogue Canadian Jewish literature engages exile at home abroad and abroad at home Mordecai Richler's Imperfect Search for Moral Values Shana Rosenblatt Mauer, 2022-08-15 From his debut as a novelist Mordecai Richler challenged provoked enraged entertained and surprised readers Criticizing him for his portrayals of Canada and accusing him of being anti Jewish many found his mix of progressive sympathies and illiberal satire confounding but hard to ignore His novels were too engaging their subjects crackled with contemporary relevance and their humour was irresistible Mordecai Richler's Imperfect Search for Moral Values is an investigation into Richler's novels and the conflicting reactions they provoked Taking into consideration the most prevalent and voluble responses to his novels Shana Mauer examines the texts themselves and assesses how they stand up to these reactions She asks whether the backlash was justified and whether these novels savaged Canada maligned the Jewish community disparaged women mocked gays and generally despaired of modern life and contemporary culture As the first study of Richler's entire corpus this book considers these issues in the context of a long career one as consistent as it was varied in which an ideological discourse often but not always evolved Turning away from impressions assumptions and generalizations many informed by Richler's non fiction and on record comments Mauer focuses instead on the substance of the novels themselves finding there a restless search for lasting moral value Mordecai Richler's Imperfect Search for Moral Values explores the construction of literary texts that have made Richler one of the most intriguing and successful modern writers as well as an essential voice in Canadian and Jewish literature in the second half of the twentieth century
