Sumatra Island Of Adventure:

Sumatra Eric Oey, 1994 Violence and Serenity Natasha Reichle, 2007-07-26 The mention of Buddhism in Indonesia calls to mind for many people the Central Javanese monument of Borobudur one of the largest Buddhist monuments in the world and the subject of extensive scholarly scrutiny The neglect of scholarship on Buddhist art from later periods might lead one to assume that after the tenth century Buddhism had been completely eclipsed by the predominantly Hindu Eastern Javanese dynasties Yet as the works discussed here illustrate extraordinary Buddhist images were still being produced as late as the fourteenth century Violence and Serenity offers a close examination of some of the impressive works from East Java and Sumatra and explores their political and religious roles The number of clearly identifiable Buddhist works from the Singasari and Majapahit dynasties 1222 ca 1520 is limited yet existing examples are impressive They demonstrate a remarkable level of craftsmanship and are exceptionally expressive exhibiting a range of emotions from the ferocious to the serene Following a brief discussion of the early history of Buddhism in Indonesia Natasha Reichle focuses each chapter on a specific statue or group of statues and considers the larger issues evoked by the images Through a rarely examined depiction of the last Singasari king she explores the nature of religion in Java in the late thirteenth century and what we know about tantric practices and the syncretism of Hinduism and Buddhism She reassesses the question of portraiture in ancient Javanese art while contemplating the famous Prajaparamita from Singasari Notions of kingship are discussed in light of a number of statues depicting the Buddhist deity Amoghapasa and his attendants and the meanings of the Amoghapasamala The final chapter examines the origins and significance of one of Indonesia's most spectacular sculptures a four meter high Buddhist bhairava demon discovered in West Sumatra

The Travels, Voyages, and Adventures of Gilbert Go-ahead Samuel Griswold Goodrich, 1856 Americans in Sumatra James W. Gould, 2012-12-06 There is a common belief that until recently Americans have preferred isolation to interest in remote areas such as Southeast Asia This thesis can be tested by examining the history of American relations with a place on the opposite side of the globe from the United States Such a land is Sumatra It is one of the largest islands in the world Its 166 789 square mile area exceeds that of the third largest American state California and is larger than Italy Lying halfway around the world from the United States its 1050 mile length is almost divided by the equator which runs across it for 285 miles Sumatra's strategic importance is two fold Firstly it is the first island stepping stone from the Asiatic mainland into the Australasian archipelago This was demonstrated in 1942 when the United States stationed planes on Sumatra in an attempt to stem the Japanese advance southward Secondly it lies athwart the shortest sea routes from Eastern Asia to Europe and the Eastern United States Sumatra's southern tip forms one side of the Straits of Sunda which guards the access to the Java China and Philippine Seas At the island's northern tip is the entrance to the Straits of Malacca the shortest sea lane between the Near and Far East The opening of the Suez Canal in 1869 shifted the shortest route between the Far East and the Western World from the Sunda to the Malacca Straits
