Ancient Nubia 300 B.C. - AD 250 and its Egyptian Models László Török, 2011-07-12 Presenting a large body of evidence for the first time this book offers a comprehensive treatment of Nubian architecture sculpture and minor arts in the period between 300 BC AD 250 It focuses primarily on the Nubian response to the traditional pharaonic Hellenistic Roman Hellenizing and hybrid elements of Ptolemaic and Roman Egyptian culture The author begins with a history of Nubian art and a critical survey of the literature on Ptolemaic and Roman Egyptian art Special chapters are then devoted to the discussion of the Egyptian Greek interaction in the arts of Ptolemaic Egypt the place of Egyptian Hellenistic and Hellenizing art within the oikumene the pluralistic visual world of Ptolemaic and Roman Egypt as well as on the specific genre of terracotta sculpture Utilizing examples from Meroe City and Musawwarat es Sufra the author argues that cultural transfer from Ptolemaic and Roman Egypt to Nubia resulted in an inward focused adaptation Therefore the resulting Nubian art from this period expresses only those aspects of Egyptian and Greek art that are compatible with indigenous Nubian goals

Sunken Cities Logan Bell, AI, 2025-02-26 Sunken Cities explores the fascinating world of submerged settlements blending history mythology and archaeological discoveries to uncover civilizations lost to the sea The book examines the geological and environmental factors that caused these cities to sink as well as the cultural impact and enduring myths they've inspired

Readers will discover how marine archaeology and insights from environmental science are used to study these underwater sites. The book progresses geographically starting with the Mediterranean including the legendary Atlantis and the submerged city of Pavlopetri in Greece, one of the oldest underwater cities. It then moves to Asia exploring cities like Dwarka in India, lost to rising sea levels and tsunamis. By studying these sites, the book reveals valuable lessons for addressing contemporary issues like climate change and coastal management, demonstrating how past civilizations' struggles offer insights for our future.

The Ancient Sea Hamish Williams, Ross Clare, 2022-11-17. In the ancient Mediterranean world, the sea was an essential domain for trade, cultural exchange, communication, exploration, and colonisation. In tandem with the lived reality of this maritime space, a parallel experience of the sea emerged in narrative representations from ancient Greece and Rome of the sea as a cultural imaginary. This imaginary seems often to oscillate between two extremes: the utopian and the catastrophic. Such representations can be found in narratives from ancient history, philosophy, society, and literature, as well as in their post-classical receptions. Utopia can be found in some imaginary island paradise far away, and across the distant sea, the sea can hold an unknown, mysterious, divine wealth below its surface, and the sea itself as a powerful watery body can hold a liberating potential. The utopian quality of the sea and seafaring can become a powerful metaphor for articulating political notions of the ideal state or for expressing an individual's sense of hope and subjectivity. Yet the catastrophic sea balances any perfective imaginings: the sea threatens coastal inhabitants with floods, tsunamis, and earthquakes, and sailors with storms and the accompanying monsters. From symbolic perspectives, the catastrophic sea represents violence, instability, the savage, and even cosmological chaos. The twelve papers in this volume explore the themes of utopia and catastrophe in the liminal environment of the sea through the lens of history, philosophy, literature, and classical reception. Creating a Hellenistic World Andrew Erskine, Lloyd Llewellyn-Jones, 2010-12-31. Alexander's conquest of the Persian empire had far-reaching impact in space and time. Much of the territory that he seized would remain under the control of Macedonian kings until the arrival of the Romans. But Macedonian power also brought with it Greeks and Greek culture. In this book, leading scholars in the field explore the creation of this Hellenistic world, its cultural, political, and economic transformations, and how far these were a consequence of Alexander's conquests. New kingdoms were established; new cities such as Alexandria and Antioch were founded; art and literature discovered fresh patrons; Egyptians and Iranians had to come to terms with Graeco-Macedonian rulers and settlers, while Greeks and Macedonians learned the ways of more ancient cultures. The essays presented here offer an exciting interdisciplinary approach to the study of this emerging Hellenistic world, its newness, but also its oldness, both real and imagined.

Apollonius of Rhodes and the Spaces of Hellenism William G. Thalmann, 2011-05-20 Although Apollonius of Rhodes extraordinary epic poem on the Argonauts quest for the Golden Fleece has begun to get the attention it deserves it still is not well known to many readers and scholars This book explores the poem s relation to the conditions of its writing in third century BCE Alexandria where a multicultural environment transformed the Greeks understanding of themselves and the world Apollonius uses the resources of the imagination the myth of the Argonauts voyage and their encounters with other peoples to probe the expanded possibilities and the anxieties opened up when definitions of Hellenism and boundaries between Greeks and others were exposed to question Central to this concern with definitions is the poem s representation of space Thalmann uses spatial theories from cultural geography and anthropology to argue that the Argo s itinerary defines space from a Greek perspective that is at the same time qualified Its limits are exposed and the signs with which the Argonauts mark space by their passage preserve the stories of their complex interactions with non Greeks The book closely considers many episodes in the narrative with regard to the Argonauts redefinition of space and the implications of their actions for the Greeks situation in Egypt and it ends by considering Alexandria itself as a space that accommodated both Greek and Egyptian cultures environment Theatricality and the Arts Richard Rushton, Andrew Quick, 2024-04-30 Theatricality and the Arts presents a series of investigations of the notion of theatricality. Primarily theatricality concerns that which pertains to theatre but the term has always carried with it the potentially pejorative associations of exaggeration and fakery. The essays here question and contest such associations. The book is divided into four sections which together provide a comprehensive interrogation of theatricality. The four sections begin with multimedia where theatricality is examined in relation to mixed modes of media: internet art, painting, performance and digital display. A second section takes a philosophical approach to questions of theatricality. A third section looks at art broadly speaking but also at the historical contexts of art, photography and other media, literature, film, music. A final section features reflections on theatre and cinema often in conjunction. Considered as a whole, the collection contributes to debates on theatricality in various fields while also enabling a cross examination of approaches to the topic.

The Protection of Archaeological Heritage in Times of Economic Crisis Elena

Korka, 2015-01-12 This volume brings together the proceedings of the conference 'From past experience to new approaches and synergies: The future of protection management for archaeological heritage in times of economic crisis' held in the new Acropolis Museum in Athens in 2012. The conference was organised by the Hellenic National Committee of the International Scientific Council on Monuments and Sites (ICOMOS) and the International Scientific Committee on Archaeological Heritage Management (ICAHM) with the participation of United Nations Educational Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO), the International Centre for the Study of the Preservation and Restoration of Cultural Property (ICCROM), the International Council of Museums (ICOM) and the International Committee on Risk Preparedness (ICORP). Special interest at the conference was directed to the Mediterranean region as the area currently faces a variety of serious man-made and natural disasters. This book offers a collection of papers presented at the conference which examine existing experiences in various parts of the world in order to offer solutions and new ways of managing the protection of cultural heritage as well as sustaining the preservation of archaeological remains in times of economic crisis which represents a major threat facing archaeological heritage worldwide. The current economic crisis has had a significant impact on various sectors of archaeological heritage management and has affected the majority of tangible and intangible cultural assets. In this framework, some of the main themes that are addressed in this volume include environmental harmonization, management and best practices in sustainability, management action plans, risk mitigation and confrontation, research in conservation, preservation and technologies, shelter protection, restoration, coordination and site use, illicit excavations and trafficking, protection of collections and movable finds, preservation of intangible heritage at sites and monuments and heritage and the economy. The book offers useful documentation for maintaining high standards in the field of archaeological heritage while searching for new ground for synergies and fresh initiatives in order to confront the new challenges archaeology is currently facing such as the economic crisis, a factor which is closely connected to the development of society and the sustainability of cultural
