

CASE METHOD PROCESS

1

Individual Preparation

Start by reading and thinking about the case on your own. Determine broadly what the case is about, examine the data and information given and identify the critical issues. Put yourself in the place of the decision-maker in the case and develop some recommendations.

2

Team Discussion

In your teams, help one another understand the case better. Conduct a healthy debate on the best approaches to the case. It's a chance to challenge positions, learn from others and break through individual analysis to new and better ideas.

3

Classroom Discussion

In the classroom, an in-depth, multi-faceted discussion of the case is conducted under the facilitation of an Ivey professor, whose role is to encourage, challenge and provoke. The professor wraps up the discussion with a summary of the lessons learned and analytical frameworks derived from the case.

Learning Process

Learning increases at each step
