Teaching Deaf Children:

How Deaf Children Learn Marc Marschark, Peter C. Hauser, 2011-11-22 In this book renowned authorities Marschark and Hauser explain how empirical research conducted over the last several years directly informs educational practices at home and in the classroom and offer strategies that parents and teachers can use to promote optimal learning in their deaf and hard of hearing children

Teaching Deaf Learners Harry Knoors PhD, Marc Marschark, 2013-12-23 Teaching Deaf Learners Psychological and Developmental Foundations explores how deaf students children and adolescents learn and the conditions that support their reaching their full cognitive potential or not Beginning with an introduction to teaching and learning of both deaf and hearing students Knoors and Marschark take an ecological approach to deaf education emphasizing the need to take into account characteristics of learners and of the educational context Building on the evidence base with respect to developmental and psychological factors in teaching and learning they describe characteristics of deaf learners which indicate that teaching deaf learners is not or should not be the same as teaching hearing learners In this volume Knoors and Marschark explore factors that influence the teaching of deaf learners including their language proficiencies literacy and numeracy skills cognitive abilities and social emotional factors These issues are addressed in separate chapters with a focus on the importance to all of them of communication and language Separate chapters are devoted to the promise of multimedia enhanced education and the possible influences of contextual aspects of the classroom and the school on learning by deaf students The book concludes by pointing out the importance of appropriate education of teachers of deaf learners given the increasing diversity of those students and the contexts in which they are educated It bridges the gap between research and practice in teaching and outlines ways to improve teacher education

Educating Deaf Students Marc Marschark, Harry G. Lang, John Anthony Albertini, 2006

Raising and Educating a Deaf Child Marc Marschark, 2007-01-27 The second edition of this guide offers a readable comprehensive summary of everything a parent or teacher would want to know about raising and educating a deaf child It covers topics ranging from what it means to be deaf to the many ways that the environments of home and school can influence a deaf child's chances for success in academic and social circles The new edition provides expanded coverage of cochlear implants spoken language mental health and educational issues relating to deaf children enrolled in integrated and separate settings Marschark makes sense of the most current educational and scientific literature and also talks to deaf children their parents and deaf adults about what is important to them Raising and Educating a Deaf Child is not a how to book or one with all the right answers for raising a deaf child rather it is a guide through the conflicting suggestions and programs for raising deaf children as well as the likely implications of taking one direction or the other

Deaf Education Beyond the Western World Harry Knoors, Maria Brons, Marc Marschark, 2019-01-16 If teachers want to educate deaf learners effectively they have to apply evidence informed methods and didactics with the needs of individual deaf students in mind

Education in general and education for deaf learners in particular is situated in broader societal contexts where what works within the Western world may be quite different from what works beyond the Western world. By exploring practice based and research based evidence about deaf education in countries that largely have been left out of the international discussion thus far this volume encourages more researchers in more countries to continue investigating the learning environment of deaf learners based on the premise of leaving no one behind. Featuring chapters centering on 19 countries from Africa Asia Latin America and Central and Eastern Europe the volume offers a picture of deaf education from the perspectives of local scholars and teachers who demonstrate best practices and challenges within their respective regional contexts. This volume addresses the notion of learning through the exchange of knowledge outlines the commonalities and differences between practices and policies in educating deaf and hard of hearing learners and looks ahead to the prospects for the future development of deaf education research in the context of recently adopted international legal frameworks. Stimulating academic exchange regionally and globally among scholars and teachers who are fascinated by and invested in deaf education this volume strengthens the foundation for further improvement of education for deaf children all around the world.

Educating Deaf Learners Harry Knoors, Marc Marschark, 2015-06-10

Education in general and education for deaf learners in particular has gone through significant changes over the past three decades. And change certainly will be the buzzword in the foreseeable future. The rapid growth of information and communication technology as well as progress in educational psychological and allied research fields have many scholars questioning aspects of traditional school concepts. For example should the classroom be flipped so that students receive instruction online at home and do homework in school. At the same time inclusive education has changed the traditional landscape of special education and thus of deaf education in many if not all countries and yet deaf children continued to lag significantly behind hearing peers in academic achievement. As a consequence of technological innovations e.g. digital hearing aids and early bilateral cochlear implants the needs of many deaf learners have changed considerably. Parents and professionals however are just now coming to recognize that there are cognitive experiential and social emotional differences between deaf and hearing students likely to affect academic outcomes. Understanding such differences and determining ways in which to accommodate them through global cooperation must become a top priority in educating deaf learners. Through the participation of an international interdisciplinary set of scholars Educating Deaf Learners takes a broader view of learning and academic achievement than any previous work considering the whole child. In adopting this broad perspective the authors capture the complexities and commonalities in the social emotional cognitive and linguistic mosaic of which the deaf child is a part. It is only through such a holistic consideration that we can understand their academic potential.
