

A stylized graphic featuring a large, dark clock face in the center. The clock has a simple design with a ring at the top and two hands. The background is a warm, orange-hued sky with a large, bright sun on the right. In the foreground, there are dark, jagged mountain peaks. A string of colorful fireworks (red, blue, and pink) is exploding above the clock. The text "SUMMER SHOWDOWN" is written in a large, white, bold, sans-serif font across the center of the image, partially overlapping the clock face.

Duquesne and the Rise of Steel Unionism James Douglas Rose, 2001 Not all workers needs were served by the union Focusing on the steel works at Duquesne Pennsylvania a linchpin of the old Carnegie Steel Company empire and then of U S Steel James D Rose demonstrates the pivotal role played by a nonunion form of employee representation usually dismissed as a flimsy front for management interests The early New Deal set in motion two versions of workplace representation that battled for supremacy company sponsored employee representation plans ERPs and independent trade unionism At Duquesne the cause of the unskilled hourly workers mostly eastern and southern Europeans as well as blacks was taken up by the union the Fort Dukane Lodge of the Amalgamated Association of Iron Steel and Tin Workers For skilled tonnage workers and skilled tradesmen mainly U S born and of northern and western European extraction ERPs offered a better solution Initially little more than a crude antiunion device ERPs matured from tools of the company into semi independent worker led organizations Isolated from the union movement through the mid 1930s ERP representatives and management nonetheless created a sophisticated bargaining structure that represented the shop floor interests of the mill s skilled workforce Meanwhile the Amalgamated gave way to the Steel Workers Organizing Committee a professionalized and tightly organized affiliate of John L Lewis s CIO that expended huge resources trying to gain companywide unionization Even when the SWOC secured a collective bargaining agreement with U S Steel in 1937 however the Union was still unable to sign up a majority of the workforce at Duquesne A sophisticated study of the forces that shaped and responded to workers interests Duquesne and the Rise of Steel Unionism confirms that what people did on the shop floor was as critical to the course of steel unionism as were corporate decision making and shifts in government policy
