Teaching And Assessing Writing Recent Advances In Understanding Evaluating And Improving Student Performance:

Teaching and Assessing Writing Edward M. White, 1994-03-18 PQ White's new edition of Teaching and Assessing Writing retains its place as the best one source examination of issues and techniques. Sensible, thorough, even handed, it is useful for both the novice teacher and the experienced administrator in designing writing classes and programs that can serve many kinds of students fairly. PQS Richard Lloyd Jones, professor of English, University of Iowa. In this thoroughly revised and completely reorganized second edition, White offers the latest theoretical and practical materials that instructors in English and across the disciplines will need in order to help students build strong writing skills. Teaching and Assessing Writing Edward M. White, 1994-03-01 Teaching Writing Christina Russell McDonald, Robert L. McDonald, 2002 Teaching Writing Landmarks and Horizons edited by Christina Russell McDonald and Robert L. McDonald is designed to present an overview of some of the major developments in the establishment of composition studies as a field during the past thirty five years. The essays are theoretically grounded but are focused on pedagogy as well. Divided into two parts, the first presents nine landmark essays selected and introduced by distinguished composition scholars and the second brings together eight new essays by emerging scholars. Handbook of Research on Assessment Technologies, Methods, and Applications in Higher Education Schreiner, Christopher S., 2009-05-31 This research publication accommodates in depth studies that elucidate both the prospects and problems of learning assessment in higher education. Provided by publisher. Assessing Media Education William G. Christ, 2013-11-05 This component of Assessing Media Education is intended for those who would like to know how other schools have grappled with implementing assessment initiatives and who have used assessment to improve their programs. The NPEC Sourcebook on Assessment: Definitions and assessment methods for critical thinking, problem solving, and writing T. Dary Erwin, 2000 Volume 1 of this sourcebook is a compendium of information about tests used to assess critical thinking, problem solving, and writing. It serves as a tool for people who want comparative data about the policy relevance of specific student outcomes measured in these areas. An interactive version of Volume 1 allows users to specify their areas of interest and create a customized search of assessment measures in the three domain areas. The tests described in Volume 1 are those that are designed to measure cognitive variables for traditional students. The compendium does not describe less traditional methods such as portfolios and competencies. In addition, the evaluations of the tests are based on the way test developers represent them in their materials and in some cases in information from third part reviews. Volume 2 is a companion volume that provides eight case studies of institutions that have addressed related issues through the use of assessment methods. In Volume 1, Volume 1 contains the following sections: 1 General and Specific Issues in Selecting Assessments, 2 Critical Thinking and Problem Solving, 3 Templates Critical Thinking and Problem Solving, 4 Writing, 5 Templates Writing Commercially Developed Tests, and 6 Templates Writing Locally Developed Tests. Volume 2 discusses the eight case studies and contains four appendixes providing details about the methodology Volume 1 contains 10 tables and 150 references SLD

Teaching and Evaluating Writing in the Age of Computers and High-Stakes Testing Carl Whithaus, 2005-04-27 This book takes on a daunting task How do writing teachers continue to work toward preparing students for academic and real world communication situations while faced with the increasing use of standardized high stakes testing Teachers need both the technical ability to deal with this reality and the ideological means to critique the information technologies and assessment methods that are transforming the writing classroom Teaching and Evaluating Writing in the Age of Computers and High Stakes Testing serves this dual need by offering a theoretical framework actual case studies and practical methods for evaluating student writing By examining issues in writing assessment ranging from the development of electronic portfolios to the impact of state wide standards based assessment methods on secondary and post secondary courses this book discovers four situated techniques of authentic assessment that are already in use at a number of locales throughout the United States These techniques stress interacting with students as communicators using synchronous and asynchronous environments describing the processes and products of student learning rather than enumerating deficits situating pedagogy and evaluation within systems that incorporate rather than exclude local variables and distributing assessment among diverse audiences By advocating for a flexible system of communication based assessment in computer mediated writing instruction this book validates teachers and students experiences with writing and also acknowledges the real world weight of the new writing components on the SAT and ACT as well as on state mandated standardized writing and proficiency exams

Teaching ESL Composition Dana R. Ferris, John Hedgcock, John S. Hedgcock, 2004-09-15 In keeping with the spirit of the first edition Teaching ESL Composition Purpose Process and Practice Second Edition presents pedagogical approaches to the teaching of ESL composition in the framework of current theoretical perspectives on second language writing processes practices and writers The text as a whole moves from general themes to specific pedagogical concerns A primary goal is to offer a synthesis of theory and practice in a rapidly evolving community of scholars and professionals The focus is on providing apprentice teachers with practice activities that can be used to develop the complex skills involved in teaching second language writing Although all topics are firmly grounded in reviews of relevant research a distinguishing feature of this text is its array of hands on practical examples materials and tasks which are presented in figures and in the main text The synthesis of theory and research in a form that is accessible to preservice and in service teachers enables readers to see the relevance of the field s knowledge base to their own present or future classroom settings and student writers Each chapter includes Questions for Reflection pre reading questions that invite readers to consider their own prior experiences as students and writers and to anticipate how these insights might inform their own teaching practice Reflection and Review follow up questions that ask readers to examine and evaluate the theoretical information and practical suggestions provided in the main discussion and Application Activities a range of hands on practical exercises such as evaluating and synthesizing published research developing lesson plans designing classroom activities executing classroom tasks writing commentary on sample student papers and assessing student writing The dual emphasis on theory and practice makes this text appropriate as a primary or supplementary text in courses focusing on second language writing theory as well as practicum courses that emphasize or include second language writing instruction or literacy instruction more generally New in the Second Edition updated research summaries consider new work that has appeared since publication of the first edition revised chapter on research and practice in the use of computers in second language writing courses covers recent developments streamlined number and type of Application Activities focus on hands on practice exercises and critical analysis of primary research and revisions throughout reflect the authors own experiences with the text and reviewers suggestions for improving the text

Improving Writing and Thinking Through

Assessment Teresa L. Flateby, 2010-06-01 Improving Writing and Thinking through Assessment is designed to help individual faculty and administrators select assessment approaches and measures to maximize their students writing and thinking The book offers useful guidance through presentation of recommended assessment guidelines and measurement principles in Part 1 and applications from a variety of contributors in Part 2 It addresses a wide range of audiences including instructors who want to assess and thus foster writing and thinking in their courses administrators and instructors planning to assess writing and thinking at the program or institutional level and graduate students interested in improving students writing and critical thinking This book is more guide than a cookbook By providing comprehensive standards and criteria that help individuals or teams develop plans and measures to improve writing and thinking the book should be helpful for academic and Student Affairs administrators and faculty as the principles apply equally to all engaged in assessment Contributors representing a wide range of educators illustrate many of the approaches and methods described in the theoretical section of the book using a variety of assessment strategies at both classroom and program levels Readers will see how different types of institutions both private and public as well as undergraduate and graduate have designed assessment strategies and plans to gauge and enhance writing and thinking growth in the classroom and across programs They candidly describe challenges encountered and solutions they adopted or suggest These chapters reflect approaches and perspectives from various discourse communities including writing program administrators composition faculty assessment professionals and individual faculty representing several disciplines The author argues the urgent need to develop strong writers and thinkers She discusses challenges and obstacles but underscores the necessity for more faculty involvement and institutional commitment This book will help institutions and individual faculty design and implement sound meaningful assessment strategies to foster effective writing and thinking that will both advance the goals of the institutional mission and meet faculty s disciplinary objectives and scholarly concerns

Gender and Fair Assessment Warren W.

Willingham, Nancy S. Cole, 2013-12-16 There have been many important changes in the participation of women and men in American society over the past quarter century Tests play a role in those changes by providing evidence of the diverse achievement and proficiency of women and men They aid the learning process and reflect inequalities in opportunity to learn and participate In addition they provide useful information in considering what alternatives in education and work make most sense for individuals and influence views about groups of students educational programs and a wide range of issues For all of these reasons it is important that tests assess fairly and reflect accurately the ways young people are and are not achieving as well as desired The test performance of women and men is a research topic of historical interest and has received much attention in recent years Because of this increased interest there is a great deal of new research and data available The purpose of the study presented in this volume was to review this new information with two objectives in mind to clarify patterns of gender difference and similarity in test performance and related achievements and to see what implications those findings might have for fair assessment and as a corollary examine the assessment process as a possible source of gender differences This study is interested in tests used in education to assess developed knowledge and skill In order to gain a broader view of gender similarity and difference the contributors looked at other types of measures and other characteristics of young women and men Their hope is to contribute to a firmer basis for insuring fairness in tests an objective which is particularly important as the field moves increasingly to new forms of assessment in which there is less experience
