Improved Test Scores, Attitudes, and Behaviors in America's Schools Thomas C. DeBello, Rita Dunn, 1999-10-30 Education is a profession in which billions of federal dollars have been spent to reduce academic underachievement, particularly for minority children from poverty homes. Few funded programs have reduced failure on standardized achievement tests. Despite either repetition or innovation, most children who fail do not perform substantially better the next time around. On the other hand, practitioners who have used the Dunn and Dunn learning styles approaches have reported statistically higher standardized achievement test scores among average, poorly achieving, and special education students. This book is based on the practical, diverse experiences of more than thirty different supervisors throughout the United States. Representing a variety of urban and suburban locations with diverse student populations, each supervisor was able to obtain significantly higher standardized achievement test scores for his or her student populations.

This book is written to prevent more children from becoming at risk and to help those who already have fallen behind their classmates and do not enjoy school.
