T.S. Eliot's Dramatic Theory and Practice Carol H. Smith, 2015-12-08 Although there have been innumerable studies of T S Eliot this is the first to examine closely the changes in his dramatic practice and to relate them to his artistic and intellectual development Professor Smith finds Eliot s dramatic theory rooted in his conception of the need for order in religion and art she traces this concept as it evolved from the overtly religious The Rock and Murder in the Cathedral through such symbolic drawing room plays as The Family Reunion The Cocktail Party and The Confidential Clerk to Eliot s latest study of human and divine love in The Elder Statesman Carol H Smith explores Eliot s interest in the jazz rhythms of the English music hall in the mythical method of Yeats and Joyce and in the work of the Cambridge School of Classical Anthropology Originally published in 1963 The Princeton Legacy Library uses the latest print on demand technology to again make available previously out of print books from the distinguished backlist of Princeton University Press These editions preserve the original texts of these important books while presenting them in durable paperback and hardcover editions The goal of the Princeton Legacy Library is to vastly increase access to the rich scholarly heritage found in the thousands of books published by Princeton University Press since its founding in 1905

Recurring Patterns in T.S. Eliot's Prose and Poetry Peter Reinau, 1978

The Technique of "Echoes" in T. S. Eliot's Poems - Second Edition Manea Adrian, 2025-04-16 Eliot uses a technique of echoes of quotations and allusions in order to evoke meaningful fragments of the past culture Rhythms as repeated patterns of sound may be considered forms of echoes And so are quotations In his poems T S Eliot works simultaneously on two levels one level of borrowings quotations and echoes of the past literary traditions a level of artistic plagiarism and of meaningful fragments and at the same time the poetic discourse presents the poetic ego with his masks personae in the present American civilisation The poem is the result of mixing the two different levels the level of objective reality Reality I and the Reality of 2nd degree The reality of the language These are intertextuality or a dependence upon outside sources for meaning Quotations from the past literature integrated into the present literature form a new text Two separate voices speaking at the same time the same message at the segmental and at the suprasegmental levels of communication
