Sounds of a Cowhide Drum Oswald Mbuyiseni Mtshali, 2012 The Muzzled Muse Margreet de Lange, 1997 A critical assessment of literature produced under censorship needs to take into account that the strategies of the censors are answered by strategies of the writers and the readers To recognize self censoring strategies in writing it is necessary to know the specific restrictions of the censorship regime in question In South Africa under apartheid all writers were confronted with the question of how to respond to the pressure of censorship This confrontation took a different form however depending on what group the writer belonged to and what language he she used By looking at white writers writing in Afrikaans and white and black writers writing in English this book gives the impact of censorship on South African literature a comparative examination which it has not received before The book considers works by J M Coetzee Nadine Gordimer Andre Brink and others less known to readers outside South Africa like Karel Schoeman Louis Kruger Christopher Hope Miriam Tlali and Mtutuzeli Matshoba It treats the censorship laws of the apartheid regime as well as in the final chapter the new law of the Mandela government which shows some surprising similarities to its predecessor Poetry and the Aesthetics of Commitment in South African Literature David Olusegun Agbaje, Ph.D, 2024-03-01 What is literature What is poetry How do poets committed to the idea of using poetry as a weapon of socio cultural and political struggle manage to impress their works in the minds and memories of men long after the struggle has been fought and won or lost What will a new generation of poets write about after the explosive social contradictions that inspired older poets have been resolved Why do the themes and styles of poets in transitional societies change along with human fortunes and circumstances This book provides answers to these questions and more using the poetic heritage of South Africa It is a compelling pedagogic work a must read for every student researcher and teacher of African poetry and a collector's item for the general public

Black Consciousness and South Africa's National Literature Tom Penfold, 2017-10-14 This book analyses Black Consciousness poetry and theatre from the 1970s through to the present South Africa's literature like its history has been beset by disagreement and contradiction and has been consistently difficult to pin down as one united entity Much existing criticism on South Africa's national literature has attempted to overcome these divisions by discussing material written from a variety of different subject positions together This book argues that Black Consciousness desired a new South Africa where African and European cultures were valued equally and writers could represent both as they wished Thus a body of literature was created that addressed a range of audiences and imagined the South African nation in different ways This book explores Black Consciousness in order to demonstrate how South African writers have responded in various ways to the changing history and politics of their country
