reader through a reflexive engagement with weather seeking to shed light on pressing issues around climate change and its entanglements from the body where contours of weather are intimately felt and known to the ways that agencies of weather are implicated in the construction of nations to global topologies of climate in justice Reflecting on deep and ongoing collaborative work undertaken with Indigenous led research collectives in Australia and the Philippines the book traces contours of response ability learning from weathery relationships to speak back to constructions of climate that see it as aer nullius belonging to no one and that deny ongoing responsibilities becomings and belongings The book aims to support more than human and relational understandings of weather that situate us all within an ethics of differential cobecoming and that demand attention to the connections that bind and co constitute The book is intended for those interested in thinking differently about weather and climate particularly those who feel an urgent dissatisfaction with mainstream responses and understandings It will be beneficial for those who would learn from weather from and with place in ways led by Indigenous scholars and their allies though an engaged reflexive more than human and ethnographic account It does not shy away from critical engagement nor the changes desperately needed to learn and unlearn to attend to positionalities and responsibilities and to engage with what it means to weather on unceded Indigenous land
