

SITE PLANNING AND DESIGN FOR THE ELDERLY

The background of the cover is a detailed architectural site plan. It features several rectangular building footprints of varying sizes, some with internal room divisions. The plan is heavily populated with numerous circles of different diameters, representing trees and landscaping. Winding lines suggest paths or roads. The overall style is a technical, line-drawn architectural sketch.

Site Planning and Design for the Elderly Diane Y. Carstens, 1993-02-15 Design for the elderly is at the forefront of architectural topics today Yet while much has been written about the design of indoor spaces little work has been done on planning outdoor spaces to accommodate the needs of the elderly Site Planning and Design for the Elderly specifically addresses this issue drawing from a large body of original research current knowledge and theory to provide the background knowledge and specific information necessary for informed decision making throughout the site planning and design process More than just a reference on accessibility standards this volume offers key insights into the needs and concerns of older people in the built environment and presents guidelines and alternatives for responsive site planning and design Organized in a clear step by step format for easy reference issues and specific guidelines are provided for each stage of the planning and design process within the context of housing for older people Moreover architects landscape architects urban designers developers and students will find the topics covered applicable to other settings where older people are a part of the user profile such as downtown renewal hospital and park planning projects Numerous illustrations and case studies highlight major points throughout the text The first sections of this volume provide valuable background information on housing options available to seniors and outline design implications of the social and physiological changes associated with advancing age Critical design and management issues are discussed objectives are outlined and implementation strategies are developed including methods for promoting wayfinding enhancing personalization and maximizing opportunities for social interaction The body of this volume provides specific guidelines for each stage of development Site planning areas addressed include site selection the layout of housing units including relationships between facilities offering different levels of care recreational amenities and circulation systems Detailed guidelines for the location spatial configuration detailing and amenities of major site components and recreational facilities are also provided Entryways parking patios rooftop developments and gardening centers are among the specific areas covered A brief outline of the major issues affecting use of each site component is particularly useful for making decisions regarding facility provision and for prioritizing development alternatives Critical detailing and amenity specifications are pinpointed and thoroughly described Paving materials signage lighting site furniture and pedestrian street crossings are among those elements examined A concise overview in tabular form of the major guidelines presented throughout closes this practical volume It is possible to design a site that will not only enhance the lives of elderly residents but will be cost effective and highly marketable as well Site Planning and Design for the Elderly provides practical solutions to the problems of exterior design for one of the fastest growing segments of the U S population today Site planning and design for the elderly; issues, guidelines, and alternatives D.Y. Carstens, 1985

Design for Assisted Living Victor Regnier, 2003-02-28 Destined to become the defining work on the subject this timely reference addresses the single fastest growing segment of the senior living industry assisted living for those who are unable to live independently but who do not need intensive nursing home care meals housekeeping or twenty four hour access to medical assistance Victor Regnier s visually rich guide includes dozens of design solutions from successful assisted living facilities along with fifteen case studies from the U S and Europe The book also covers recent developments in the industry including major changes in financing growth of dementia and interest in aging in place All in all this is the most comprehensive guide to assisted living design that you ll find in any single volume

Shelter and Service Issues for Aging Populations Leon A Pastalan,2014-01-09 Shelter and Service Issues for Aging Populations takes you for an inside look at what policies in Western Europe Canada and the United States have done to meet the housing and service needs of the elderly and the disabled and what policies have yet to accomplish As you learn about a wide range of cost effective and successful housing options such as congregate housing home equity conversions and homesharing you will learn about the challenges of providing responsive high quality housing and living arrangements to meet the needs of different populations As this insightful book reveals the psychosocial needs of elderly and disabled persons have often been neglected in efforts to provide appropriate physical accommodation and services and shelter are seldom coordinated to respond to the changes individuals experience Shelter and Service Issues for Aging Populations shows you how federal and state provincial governments nonprofit organizations and private groups have all implemented policies to create barrier free housing Yet at the same time most Western countries have not developed comprehensive grant and loan programs to allow the elderly and disabled to modify their homes As this book walks you through the problems that exist it shows you how policymakers architects social work practitioners and academics housing developers and community leaders can work together to improve housing conditions and services Along the way you will learn about the failure of health care systems to cover home modifications the Fair Housing Act Amendment stigmatizing effects of the elderly label in obtaining community accommodation differences between environmental needs of rural and urban seniors current patterns of housing and living arrangements of older Canadians the effects of demographic aging on the urban ecology the Abbeyfield model of congregate housing continuing care retirement communities aging in place Shelter and Service Issues for Aging Populations looks at the strengths and weaknesses of different approaches to housing and service provision to help housing policy specialists gerontologists social workers community leaders architects and housing developers find stronger more effective solutions for giving people the home environments they need Don t continue to supply inadequate housing to people with special needs Let this book inform you guide you and contribute to the shaping of important new housing and service policies

Journal of Rehabilitation Research & Development ,2007      Journal of Rehabilitation R & D ,2007      Compensating for Psychological Deficits and Declines Roger A. Dixon,Lars B.,ckman,Lars Backman,2013-06-17 The concept of compensation in psychology refers to processes through which a gap or mismatch between current accessible skills and environmental demands is reduced or closed These gaps can be principally the result of losses such as those associated with aging or interpersonal role changes injuries such as those that may occur to the neurological or sensory systems organic or functional diseases such as the dementias or schizophrenia and congenital deficits such as those apparent in autism or some learning disabilities Whether the demand skill gaps can be bridged completely reduced only moderately or are impossible to close depends on a variety of factors In every case however the guiding notions of compensation are that some such deficits may be amendable the continuation of the effects of the gap may be avoidable and some functioning may be recoverable In this sense compensation is related to adaptation it is about overcoming deficits managing the effects of losses and promoting improvement in psychological functioning Compensation is a concept that has a long and rich history in numerous domains of psychological research and practice To date however few of the relevant research domains have benefitted explicitly or optimally from considering alternative perspectives on the concept of compensation Although researchers and practitioners in several areas of psychology have actively pursued programs with compensation as a central concept communication across disciplinary divides has been lacking Comparing and contrasting the uses and implications of the concept across neighboring and even not so adjacent areas of psychology can promote advances in both theoretical and practical pursuits The goal of this book is to carry inchoate integrative efforts to a new level of clarity To this end the editors have recruited major authors from selected principal areas of research and practice in psychological compensation The authors review the current state of compensation scholarship in their domains of specialization State of the art reviews of this rapidly expanding area of scholarship are therefore collected under one cover for the first time In this way a wide variety of readers who might otherwise rarely cross professional paths with one another can quickly learn about alternative preferences agendas and methods as well as novel research results interpretations and practical applications Designed to contain broad deep and current perspectives on compensation this volume continues the processes of explicating the concept of compensation linking and distinguishing compensation from neighboring concepts describing the variety of compensatory mechanisms operating in a wide range of phenomena and illustrating how compensatory mechanisms can be harnessed or trained to manage losses or deficits and to promote gains or at least maintenance of functioning
