Sources and Dynamics of Macroeconomic Fluctuations in Switzerland Alexander E. Kobler,2000      The Sources of Macroeconomic Fluctuations in Developing Countries Mr.Alexander W. Hoffmaister,Mr.Jorge Roldos,1996-02-01 This paper studies the sources of macroeconomic fluctuations in developing countries using a structural VAR approach Identification of the sources is achieved using long run restrictions derived from a theoretical model of a small open economy encompassing a large number of macroeconomic paradigms the short run dynamics are unrestricted This framework is applied to Brazil and Korea The results confirm that supply shocks are the main source of GDP fluctuations even in the short run Aggregate demand shocks are shown to be important in the short run in Brazil but not in Korea External shocks explain a small fraction of the variance of output whereas the real exchange rate is driven mainly by fiscal shocks Nominal shocks appear to have little impact on output and the real exchange rate      Introduction to Dynamic Macroeconomic General Equilibrium Models [Second Edition] José L. Torres,2020-10-06 This book offers an introductory step by step course in Dynamic Stochastic General Equilibrium DSGE modelling Modern macroeconomic analysis is increasingly concerned with the construction calibration and or estimation and simulation of DSGE models The book is intended for graduate students as an introductory course to DSGE modelling and for those economists who would like a hands on approach to learning the basics of modern dynamic macroeconomic modelling The book starts with the simplest canonical neoclassical DSGE model and then gradually extends the basic framework incorporating a variety of additional features such as consumption habit formation investment adjustment cost investment specific technological change taxes public capital household production non ricardian agents monopolistic competition etc The book includes Dynare codes for the models developed that can be downloaded from the book s homepage The second edition is identical to the first with the exception of a revised appendix to Chapter 2 The revised appendix can be downloaded free of charge in the accompanying downloads section      International Trade and the Business Cycle Mr.Eswar Prasad,1999-04-01 This paper develops a new empirical framework for analyzing the dynamics of the trade balance in response to different types of macroeconomic shocks The model provides a synthetic perspective on the conditional correlations between the business cycle and the trade balance that are generated by different shocks and attempts to reconcile these results with unconditional correlations found in the data The results suggest that in the post Bretton Woods period nominal shocks have been an important determinant of the forecast error variance for fluctuations in the trade balances of the Group of Seven countries      Handbook on the History of Economic Analysis Volume III Gilbert Faccarello,Heinz D. Macroeconomic Fluctuations in Developing Countries Mr.Eswar Prasad,Pierre-Richard Agénor,Mr.C. John McDermott,1999-03-01 This paper documents the main stylized features of macroeconomic fluctuations for 12 developing countries Cross correlations between domestic industrial output and a large group of macroeconomic variables including fiscal variables wages inflation money credit trade and exchange rates are presented Also analyzed are the effects of industrial country economic conditions on output fluctuations in these countries The robustness of the results is examined using different detrending procedures The results indicate many similarities between macroeconomic fluctuations in developing and industrial countries procyclical real wages countercyclical variation in government expenditure and some important differences countercyclical variation in the velocity of monetary aggregates

Macroeconomic Fluctuations in Sub-Saharan Africa Mr.Alexander W. Hoffmaister,1997-07-01 The sources of macroeconomic fluctuations in sub Saharan African are examined by comparing the CFA franc countries with the non CFA franc countries External shocks especially terms of trade shocks appear to have a greater influence on fluctuations of output and the real exchange rate in CFA franc countries This result does not appear to be associated with differences in the economic structure but may reflect the fixed exchange rate regime which does not partially buffer these countries from external shocks Macroeconomic fluctuations in non CFA franc countries are similar to those in other developing countries particularly in Latin America

Handbook of Macroeconomics John B.

Taylor, Harald Uhlig, 2016-12-01 Handbook of Macroeconomics surveys all major advances in macroeconomic scholarship since the publication of Volume 1 1999 carefully distinguishing between empirical theoretical methodological and policy issues. It courageously examines why existing models failed during the financial crisis and also addresses well deserved criticism head on. With contributions from the world's chief macroeconomists its reevaluation of macroeconomic scholarship and speculation on its future constitute an investment worth making. Serves a double role as a textbook for macroeconomics courses and as a gateway for students to the latest research. Acts as a one of a kind resource as no major collections of macroeconomic essays have been published in the last decade.

Schlagenhauf,1990-01-01 Empirical research has been conducted on the various theories of the business cycle over many countries However very little research has attempted to undertake a multi country disaggregate investigation into the sources of output change This paper decomposes fluctuations in industry output in a particular country into 1 a nation specific shock 2 an industry specific shock 3 a world shock and 4 an idiosyncratic factor Using a dynamic factor analysis state space approach the paper finds that the nation specific shock is the most important impulse The Impact of Cloud Computing on the Japanese Macroeconomy
