Southeast Asia In The 1990s Authoritarianism Democracy And Capitalism:

The Politics of Environment in Southeast Asia Philip Hirsch, Carol Warren, 2002-01-31 The Politics of Environment in Southeast Asia charts the emergence of the environment as an issue of public debate in the region Through a series of case studies the authors explore the coalescence of social forces around environmental issues the process of alliance formation and the role of state institutions media and NGOs in the complex political battles over resource allocation The volatile tensions between the winners and losers in this struggle for the environment will make Southeast Asia a focus of increased attention

Transparency and Authoritarian Rule in Southeast Asia Garry Rodan, 2004-08-02 In Transparency and Authoritarian Rule in Southeast Asia Rodan rejects the notion that the 1997 98 Asian economic crisis was further evidence that ultimately capitalism can only develop within liberal social and political institutions and that new technology necessarily undermines authoritarian control Instead Rodan argues that in Singapore and Malaysia external pressures for transparency reform were and are in many respects being met without serious compromise to authoritarian rule or the sanctioning of media freedom

Globalization and Democratization in Asia Kristina Jonsson, Catarina Kinnvall, 2003-09-02 Globalization is a defining feature of our times covering everything from economic and political issues to the spread of American culture Its status is controversial however with some viewing it as leading to greater development for all while others see it as a threat to national cultures and democratic political life This book shows how simplified such binary views are and examines how various globalizing forces have affected Asian societies It discusses the relationship between globalization identity and democratic developments in Asia both theoretically and empirically and aims to understand how economic political and social forces interact and are mutually reinforced in Asian societies

Developmentalism and Dependency in Southeast Asia Jason P. Abbott, 2003-08-29 This book provides a detailed cross country study of the automotive industry in South East Asia Abbott argues that contrary to prevailing opinion the diffusion of manufacturing in the Asia Pacific has been characterized by hierarchical networks of production linked to Japan for technology

Political Oppositions in Industrialising Asia Garry Rodan, 2013-04-15 Rodan dissects the extent of political oppositions in Asia and analyzes the nature of new social movements outside institutional party politics which are contesting the exercise of state power The book provides nine in depth case studies

Southeast Asian Responses to Globalization Francis Loh Kok Wah, 2003-08-01 It is now apparent especially in the aftermath of the regional financial crisis of 1997 that globalization has been impacting upon the Southeast Asian economies and societies in new and harrowing ways a theme of many recent studies Inadvertently these studies of globalization have also highlighted that the 1980s and 1990s debate on democratization in the region which focused on the emergence of the middle classes the roles of new social movements NGOs and the changing relations between state and civil society might have been overly one dimensional This volume revisits the theme of democratization via the lenses of globalization understood economically politically and culturally

Although globalization increasingly frames the processes of democracy and development nonetheless the governments and peoples of Southeast Asia have been able to determine the pace and character even the direction of these processes to a considerable extent This collection of essays by some distinguished senior scholars and other equally perceptive younger ones focuses on this globalization democratization nexus and shows empirically and analytically how governance is being restructured and democracy sometimes deepened in this new global era A historical review introduces the volume while an analytical assessment of the ten case studies concludes it

The Politics of Economic Liberalization in Indonesia Andrew Rosser, 2013-07-04 This book examines the dynamics shaping the economic process of economic liberalisation in Indonesia since the mid 1980 s Much writing on the process of economic liberalisation in developing countries views economic liberalisation as the victory of economic rationality over political and social interests In contrast this book argues that economic liberalisation should not be understood in these terms but rather in the way that political social interests shape processes of economic reform in both a positive and negative sense Specifically Rosser argues that economic liberalisation needs to be understood in terms of the extent to which economic crises shift the balance of power and influence within society away from coalitions opposed to reform and towards those in favour of reform In the Indonesian context the main coalitions that need to be examined in this respect are the politico bureaucrats and the conglomerates who have generally opposed reform and mobile capitalists who have generally supported reform Based on extensive original research and providing much new material the book considers the politics of economic policy making in Indonesia in a range of sectors including the capital market intellectual property law the banking industry and the trade and investment sectors Analysing why the nature of economic policy in Indonesia has varied over time this study argues that there is nothing inevitable about a transition to a fully fledged liberal market order in Indonesia and outlines possible future scenarios for the country s political economy

Malaysia, State and Civil Society in Transition Vidhu Verma, 2002 Tracing historical and political dynamics underlying nearly 20 years of authoritarian rule Verma addresses five issues Islam secular nationalism citizenship democracy and human rights arguing that modernization has led to tensions in Malaysia

Southeast Asia Jonathan Rigg, 1997 Drawing on case studies from across Southeast Asia this work assesses poverty and the ways in which the poor are identified and viewed Progress and change in the rural and urban worlds are examined in detail focusing on the strengthening rural urban interaction as farmers make a living in the urban industrial sector and factories relocate into industrial areas Giving prominence to indigenous notions of development based on Buddhism Islam and the so called Asian Way the author critically assesses the conceptual foundations of the development ideas of post developmentalism and the miracle thesis

The Thaksinization of Thailand Duncan McCargo, Ukrist Pathmanand, 2005 The 1997 economic crisis ended two decades of pluralism in Thai politics and helped create the conditions for the landslide election victory in January 2001 of Thaksin Shinawatra a fabulously wealthy telecommunications magnate often compared with Italian premier Silvio Berlusconi Prime

Globalisation and Economic Security in East Asia Helen Sharmini Nesadurai,2006 What is the relationship between globalization and economic security Globalisation and Economic Security in East Asia is an incisive new engagement with this important question that uses detailed conceptual exploration and fresh empirical analysis Viewing traditional neorealist conceptions of economic security as overly narrow this new study suggests that any conception of economic security in the contemporary era needs to also pay close attention to the nature of global capitalism and the insecurities it generates for societies and individuals This uniquely open ended approach to conceptualizing economic security is supported by the East Asian experience The country case studies included here reveal that while economic security has largely been posed as one of ensuring sustainable economic growth and equitable social development particularly following the 1997 to 1998 Asian financial crisis other more realist conceptions of economic security have not become irrelevant This is also an exploration of whether and how national regional and multilateral institutions as well as non state regional mechanisms help policy makers meet the task of governing in the interests of economic security This book will be of great interest to all students and scholars of international relations international political economy of East Asia globalization and security studies

Globalisation and Economic Security in East Asia Helen E. Nesadurai,2012-09-11 What is the relationship between globalization and economic security Globalisation and Economic Security in East Asia is an incisive new engagement with this important question that uses detailed conceptual exploration and fresh empirical analysis Viewing traditional neorealist conceptions of economic security as overly narrow this new study suggests that any conception of economic security in the contemporary era needs to also pay close attention to the nature of global capitalism and the insecurities it generates for societies and individuals This uniquely open ended approach to conceptualizing economic security is supported by the East Asian experience The country case studies included here reveal that while economic security has largely been posed as one of ensuring sustainable economic growth and equitable social development particularly following the 1997 to 1998 Asian financial crisis other more realist conceptions of economic security have not become irrelevant This is also an exploration of whether and how national regional and multilateral institutions as well as non state regional mechanisms help policy makers meet the task of governing in the interests of economic security This book will be of great interest to all students and scholars of international relations international political economy of East Asia globalization and security studies

Culture and Privilege in Capitalist Asia Michael Pinches, 2005-06-23 Culture and Privilege in Capitalist Asia shows that the cultural reconfiguration of domestic and international relations around Asia's new rich has often been characterised by tension and division

Political Cultural Developments in East Asia P. W. Preston, 2016-11-14 This book offers an interpretive and critical comparative politics analysis of the post 1945 development trajectory of the broad East Asian region and its component countries The discussion considers the region and its countries in terms of their historical legacies colonialism war and the preoccupation with development and argues that each country has constructed their own way of ordering political life each created its own political logic Arguing that it is an error to judge these countries performance against the model of Europe or America Preston discusses the era of expansionist colonialism the episode of breakdown in highly destructive regional warfare in the early twentieth century and the subsequent diverse records of China with its party state turned towards a nominal state socialism Hong Kong confronting the problems of living with distant masters Singapore with its elite directed national building and Thailand mired in elite resistance to popular political reform

Autonomy and Armed Separatism in South and Southeast Asia Michelle Ann Miller, 2012 Armed separatist insurgencies have created a real dilemma for many national governments of how much freedom to grant aggrieved minorities without releasing territorial sovereignty over the nation state This book examines different approaches that have been taken by seven states in South and Southeast Asia to try and resolve this dilemma through various offers of autonomy Providing new insights into the conditions under which autonomy arrangements exacerbate or alleviate the problem of armed separatism this comprehensive book includes in depth analysis of the circumstances that lead men and women to take up arms in an effort to remove themselves from the state's borders by creating their own independent polity

Chinese Big Business in Indonesia Christian Chua, 2008-02-14 The disintegration of Indonesia's New Order regime in 1998 and the fall of Soeharto put an end to the crude forms of centralised authoritarianism and economic protectionism that allowed large Chinese conglomerates to dominate Indonesia's private sector Contrary to all expectations most of the major capitalist groups though damaged considerably

The New Rich in Asia David Goodman, Richard Robison, 2013-09-13 This is the first volume in the The New Rich in Asia series which examines the economic social and political construction of the new rich in the countries and territories of East and South East Asia as well as their impact internationally From a western perspective the rise of the emergent business and professional class may seem very familiar However it is far from clear that those newly enriched by the processes of modernization in East and South East Asia are readily comparable with the middle classes of the West For example civil and human rights seem to play a different role in social political and economic change and the State is clearly more central as an agent of economic development This volume is the essential introduction to the series and identifies the new rich phenomenon in Indonesia Thailand Singapore Malaysia Korea China Hong Kong and Taiwan The contributors demonstrate that the key to understanding the new rich is to realise that they are neither a single category or class but in each setting a series of different socio political groups who have a common inheritance from the process of rapid economic growth

Law, Capitalism and Power in Asia Kanishka Jayasuriya, 2006-06-19 A challenging and provocative book that contests the liberal assumption that the rule of law will go hand in hand with a transition to market based economies and even democracy in East Asia Using case studies from Hong Kong China Indonesia Malaysia Taiwan Japan and Vietnam the authors argue that the rule of law is in fact more likely to provide political elites with the means closely to control civil society It is essential therefore to locate conceptions of judicial independence and the rule of law more generally within the ideological vocabulary of the state
