The Structure of the Defense Industry Nicole Ball, Milton Leitenberg, 2021-05-30 Proponents of arms control and disarmament are often confronted with the argument that reductions in defense expenditure lead to cutbacks in military industries and thus to economic hardship While a reduction in defense production would cause some economic dislocation this would be mitigated by the ability of the economy to adapt to changing patterns of production This book first published in 1983 assesses the likely effects of reductions in defense industries by an examination of the roles these industries play in national economies Each chapter discusses industry employment output research and development capital value profitability concentration and competition internal organization and regional employment concentration Other questions considered include the economic importance of weapons exports the defense industry as a leading edge in maintaining national technological capabilities and the reliance of individual firms on defense contracting Conversion of the Defense Industry in the Former Soviet Union Thierry Malleret, 1992 The Defence Industry in East-Central Europe Judit Kiss, 1997 In 1989 90 the collapse of state socialism and the end of the Cold War brought dramatic changes for the defence industries of East Central Europe Initially it seemed that the resources devoted to the Cold War confrontation might become available for investment in non military economic and social progress However by 1994 this optimism had given way to recognition that the transformation would involve significant costs and could not be accomplished quickly The Defence Industry in East Central Europe charts the development of the industries of the Visegrad countries Czechoslovakia and its successor states the Czech Republic and Slovakia Poland and Hungary In the first part national case studies underline the different approaches to reform adopted in the individual countries The second part uses unique information derived from extensive interviews at enterprises in each of the four countries to examine the transformation of industry from a producer perspective
