Symbolic Communication Signifying Calls And The Police Response:

Symbolic Communication Peter K. Manning, 1988 This first major empirical work on the semiotics of social action goes a long way toward answering substantive theoretical and pragmatic questions on how codes actually operate in a specific social setting It underscores the important yet often ignored role of the police as sign or information workers Calls to the police represent a rich variety of human troubles concerns and needs by focusing on how police handle calls from the public how they ascertain what a call means and what should be done with it and how this is transformed through subsystems within the organization Peter Manning provides a novel way of looking at organizational communication Symbolic Communication provides examples of how members of an organization interpret their environment in this instance how the meaning of a call to the police is transformed as it moves across the boundaries of the organization a transformation that involves a series of codings and recodings ensuring a continuous loose linkage of organization and environment Manning shows why the police act in ways that differ from the way citizens and politicians would have them act revealing the uncertainties that surround a policy agency's responsiveness And he points out how today's computer technologies constrain the coding process limiting in particular the effectiveness of the 911 systems used in most of our major cities Peter K Manning is a Professor of Psychiatry and of Sociology at Michigan State University and a member of the Centre for Socio Legal Studies at Oxford Symbolic Communication brings to fruition themes and ideas introduced in his previous books Police Work and The Narc's Game Symbolic Communication is included in the Organization Studies series edited by John van Maanen

CCTV and Policing Benjamin Jervis Goold, 2004 CCTV and Policing is the first major published work to present a comprehensive assessment of the impact of CCTV on the police in Britain Drawing extensively upon empirical research the volume examines how the police in Britain first became involved in public area surveillance and how they have since attempted to use CCTV technology to prevent respond to and investigate crime In addition the volume also provides a detailed analysis of the legality of CCTV surveillance in light of recent changes to the Data Protection Act and the incorporation of the European Convention on Human Rights Challenging many existing accounts of the relationship between the police and new surveillance technologies CCTV and Policing breaks new ground in policing and surveillance theory and argues that it is time for a major reassessment of both our understanding of how the police respond to technological change and of the role played by such technologies in our society Constitutive Criminology at Work Stuart Henry, Dragan Milovanovic, 1999-08-12 Provides the first applications of constitutive criminology a theoretical framework inspired by postmodernism to specific areas of criminological practice Media Worlds in the Postjournalism Era David Altheide, 2019-01-08 The concept of media logic a theoretical framework for explaining the relationship between mass media and culture was first introduced in Altheide and Snow s influential work Media Logic In Media Worlds in the Postjournalism Era the authors expand their analysis of how organizational considerations promote a distinctive media logic which in turn is conducive to a media culture They trace the ethnography of that media culture including the knowledge techniques and assumptions that encourage media professionals to acquire particular cognitive and evaluative criteria and thereby present events primarily for the media s own ends Managing Organizations Stewart R Clegg, Cynthia Hardy, Walter R Nord, 1999-04-29 In Managing Organizations Stewart Clegg Cynthia Hardy and Walter Nord explore the major issues and debates in management and organization The textbook addresses key topics such as leadership decision making and innovation in organizations alongside such themes as diversity globalization and ecology Students and teachers of management will find this a comprehensive and wide ranging resource on the core issues for contemporary managers and organizations
