The Female Offender American Correctional Association, 1990-01-01 The Task Force examined backgrounds attitudes and program needs of the nation's estimated 43 000 female inmates and looked at the practices of Federal State and local correctional institutions for women The Task Force found that the average female offender both adult and juvenile is a minority group member comes from a single parent or broken home has been a victim of sexual abuse first started using alcohol or drugs between 12 and 15 years of age and has been arrested from 2 to 9 times The average adult female offender is between 25 and 29 years of age while the average juvenile female offender is between 14 and 17 years of age Of local jails surveyed about 40 percent are less than 10 years old and nearly 80 percent house female inmates separately A significant number of State correctional facilities are not designed to house females although many facilities are expected to build new institutions or additions to existing facilities The number of female offenders is increasing in both State and local facilities but very few classification systems are designed to meet the needs of female offenders Substance abuse is reported to be high in all facilities A detailed statistical profile of female offenders and offenses is presented and policy recommendations to address the needs of this group are offered

A Comprehensive Study of Female Offenders Martin Guevara Urbina, 2008 Few empirical studies have focused on women in prison In the last few years though a number of studies have demonstrated that there are fundamental differences between male and female prisoners in an ever changing penal system Consequently there has been a need for more comprehensive studies of female offenders for three primary reasons 1 imperative research gaps remain to be bridged 2 the female prison experience is not constant and 3 prison rates for female offenders especially minority offenders have increased considerably in the last few years A central goal of this book Federal Prisons Journal ,1991 Gender and Crime Karen Heimer,Candace Kruttschnitt,2006 Resource added for the Criminal Justice Law Enforcement 105046 and Professional Studies 105045 programs Parental Incarceration Denise Johnston,Megan Sullivan,2016-03-10 Parental Incarceration makes available personal stories by adults who have had the childhood experience of parental incarceration These stories help readers better understand the complex circumstances that influence these children s health and development as well as their high risk for intergenerational crime and incarceration Denise Johnston examines her own children s experience of her incarceration within the context of what the research and her 30 years of practice with prisoners and their children has taught her arguing that it is imperative to attempt to understand parental incarceration within a developmental framework Megan Sullivan a scholar in the Humanities examines the effects of her father s incarceration on her family and underscores the importance of the reentry process for families The number of arrested jailed and imprisoned persons in the United States has increased since 1960 most dramatically between 1985 and 2000 As the majority of these incarcerated persons are parents the number of minor children with an incarcerated parent has increased alongside peaking at an estimated 2.9 million in 2006 The impact of the experience of parental incarceration has garnered attention by researchers but to date attention has been focused on the period when parents are actually in jail or prison This work goes beyond that to examine the developmental impact of children s experiences that extend long beyond that timeframe A valuable resource for students in corrections human services social work counseling and related courses as well as practitioners program agency administrators policymakers advocates and others involved with families of the incarcerated this book is testimony that the consequences of mass incarceration reach far beyond just the offender General Report of the Legislative Council to the Legislature Wisconsin.
