cross referencing that links architects and structures to entries on the history and theory of the profession make this an especially useful source on a century of the world's most notable architecture. The contents feature major architects, firms and professional issues, buildings, styles and sites, the architecture of cities and countries, critics and historians, construction materials and planning topics, schools, movements and stylistic and theoretical terms. Entries include well selected bibliographies and illustrations. Reference that rocks American Libraries May 2005 Metadesigning Designing in the Anthropocene John Wood, 2022-06-08 Long sighted radical and provocative this book offers a foundational framework of concepts, principles and methods exemplified with selected tools to enable metadesigners to manage and reinvent their practices. The book reminds readers that designers are albeit unwittingly helping to shape the Anthropocene. Despite their willingness to deliver greener products and services, designers find themselves part of an industry that has become the go-to catalyst for dividends and profit. If our species is to achieve the rehabilitation and metamorphosis we may need to design at the level of paradigms, genres, lifestyles and currencies. This would mean making design more integrated, comprehensive, adaptive, transdisciplinary, self-reflexive and relational. The book therefore advocates a shift of emphasis from designing sustainable products, services and systems towards cultivating synergies that will induce regenerative lifestyles. The book will be of interest to managers, designers, scholars and educators from a wide range of backgrounds including design research, design history, design studies and environmental studies.
