Libraries of the Mind William Marx, 2025-05-20 How we build our invisible libraries Erich Auerbach wrote his classic work Mimesis a history of narrative from Homer to Proust based largely on his memory of past reading Having left his physical library behind when he fled to Istanbul to escape the Nazis he was forced to rely on the invisible library of his mind Each of us has such a library if not as extensive as Auerbach's even if we are unaware of it In this erudite and provocative book William Marx explores our invisible libraries how we build them and how we should expand them Libraries Marx tells us are mental realities and conversely our minds are libraries We never read books apart from other texts We take them from mental shelves filled with a variety of works that help us understand what we are reading And yet the libraries in our mind are not always what they should be The selection on our mental shelves often referred to as canon heritage patrimony or tradition needs to be modified and expanded Our intangible libraries should incorporate what Marx calls the dark matter of literature the works that have been lost that exist only in fragments that have been repurposed by their authors or were never written in the first place Marx suggests methods for recovering this missing literature but he also warns us that adding new titles to our libraries is not enough We must also adopt a new attitude one that honors the diversity and otherness of literary works We must shed our preconceptions and build within ourselves a mental world library The Mental Power
