Abstract— This ecological survey carried out along the Highlands Highway (71 locations-bridges) between Erap Bridge in Morobe Province to Whagi Bridge, Western Highlands Province. Data and information collection involved physical site observations and informant interviews. The survey used the capture-release method for insects, invertebrates, fish, and plankton; flyover counts were used for birds and informant interviews for mammals and other animals of interest. Terrestrial ecosystem: Common fauna included invertebrates such as Eurema hecabe, Dananes plexippus, Plutella xylostella, and other types of butterflies, Anisoptera, Apis cerana, and black ants (Formicidae). Vertebrates such as sparrows (Passeridae), willy wagtail (Rhipidura leucophrys), eagle (Hieraaetus weiskei), kingfisher (Alcedinidae), mountain cuscus (Phalanger carmelitae), tree kangaroo (Dendrolagus goodfellowi) and Princess Stephanie's Astrapia (Astrapia, Stephanidae). Flora across the highlands province commonly appeared bamboo, casuarina oligodon (she-oak), Ficus dammaropsis, coffee, elephant grass (Pennisetum purpureum), cow grass (Axonopus compressus), ruin tree (Samanea saman), Piper aduncum and banana. In contrast, common and significant flora along plain region included casuarina, pine, leucaena, bamboo, and other anthropogenic grasses, Piper aduncum, sunflower (Helianthus annuus), Northofagus grandis, and Ficus. Aquatic ecosystem: Aquatic fauna along the highlands region included carp (Cyprinidae), tilapia (Oreochromis mossambica), juvenile fish, freshwater prawns (Palaeomonidae), trout (Oncorhynchus mykiss), and catfish (Arius spp) while aquatic fauna of coastal province comprised of invertebrates like pond skaters, water beetle and tadpoles and invertebrates such as rainbow trout and tilapia. Aquatic flora was limited to green algae at a few locations in the highlands provinces where the water was stagnant or had human impacts, but it was primarily green and brown algae in the plain area. We also found Dendrolagus goodfellowi as an endangered species, while Phalanger carmelitae, Astrapia stephaniae, and Northofagus grandis are endemic but classified as the least concern. The findings indicated modification of habitats throughout the Highlands Highway. The absence of native and endemic species was also noted in most of the locations. Only six sites revealed some primary and secondary forests and vegetation.

Keywords— Environmental impact, Highlands Highway, Papua New Guinea.

1. BACKGROUND

The Highlands Highway in Papua New Guinea passes through the coastal province of Morobe to the mountainous Highlands Provinces of Eastern Highlands, Western Highlands, Southern Highlands, Enga, Jiwaka, Hela, and Simbu, which is a densely populated region with a population of over 2.9 million (Census, 2011). The area is spread in its ecology as it ranges from the highest peak at Mt Wilhelm in the Simbu province at 4,509m above sea level to the lowlands of Kutubu Lake area in the Southern Highlands Province. The provinces of Eastern Highlands, Simbu, Jiwaka, and Western Highlands, where the Highlands Highway passes through, fall into the two ecoregions (Morrison, 2000).

The region is part of the Central Cordillera that outlines two ecoregions of interest, namely the Central Range

The Miyanmin George E. B. Morren, 1986 The Miyanmin George E. B. Morren, Jr., 1986 The Miyanmin G. E. B. Morren, 1986 Ecology of Indonesian Papua Part One Andrew J. Marshall, Bruce M. Beehler, 2011-07-19 The Ecology of Papua provides a comprehensive review of current scientific knowledge on all aspects of the natural history of western Indonesian New Guinea Designed for students of conservation environmental workers and academic researchers it is a richly detailed text dense with biogeographical data historical reference and fresh insight on this complicated and marvelous region We hope it will serve to raise awareness of Papua on a global as well as local scale and to catalyze effective conservation of its most precious natural assets New Guinea is the largest and highest tropical island and one of the last great wilderness areas remaining on Earth Papua the western half of New Guinea is noteworthy for its equatorial glaciers its vast forested floodplains its imposing central mountain range its Raja Ampat Archipelago and its several hundred traditional forest dwelling societies One of the wildest places left in the world Papua possesses extraordinary biological and cultural diversity Today Papua's environment is under threat from growing outside pressures to exploit its expansive forests and to develop large plantations of oil palm and biofuels It is important that Papua's leadership balance economic development with good resource management to ensure the long term well being of its culturally diverse populace A Grammar of Mian Sebastian Fedden, 2011-10-27 Mian is a non Austronesian Papuan language of the Ok family spoken in the Highlands fringe in western Papua New Guinea Mian has approximately 1 400 speakers and is highly endangered This grammar is the first comprehensive description of the language It is based on primary field data consisting of a text corpus that covers different genres of the oral tradition namely myths and ancestor stories historical accounts accounts of the initiation ritual conversations and procedural texts The corpus was recorded by the author during a total of eleven months of field work from 2004 to 2008 The book provides a thorough description of all areas of Mian grammar and gives an in depth analysis of many points of typological interest such as the complex system of lexical tone the interaction between a gender system and a system of classificatory prefixes on verbs of object movement manipulation or handling which allows the highlighting of certain characteristics of a referent in a given situation the complex verbal morphology which allows fine grained tense aspect mood distinctions and a switch reference system in which switch reference suffixes on medial verbs are homophonous with and derived from suffixes functioning as tense and aspect markers in final verbs The book is rounded off by a collection of traditional and contemporary texts fully glossed and translated and a word list comprising some 1 600 items giving lexical tone word class and meaning The Origin and Evolution of Cultures Los Angeles Robert Boyd Professor of Anthropology University of California, Davis Peter J. Richerson Professor of Environmental Science and Policy University of California, 2004-12-22 Oxford presents in one convenient and coherently organized volume 20 influential but until now relatively inaccessible articles that form the backbone of Boyd and Richerson's path breaking work on evolution and culture

Their interdisciplinary research is based on two notions First that culture is crucial for understanding human behavior unlike other organisms socially transmitted beliefs attitudes and values heavily influence our behavior Secondly culture is part of biology the capacity to acquire and transmit culture is a derived component of human psychology and the contents of culture are deeply intertwined with our biology Culture then is a pool of information stored in the brains of the population that gets transmitted from one brain to another by social learning processes Therefore culture can account for both our outstanding ecological success as well as the maladaptations that characterize much of human behavior The interest in this collection will span anthropology psychology economics philosophy and political science

Against the Grain Bradley B. Walters, 2008 To rise to the increasingly urgent challenge of understanding the relationship between human beings and the environment scholars need to step back and re evaluate their basic premises about how current explanations should shape the form and content of their research Against the Grain addresses a variety of topics in the field of human ecology including ecological anthropology evolutionary psychology environmental history and geography and challenges scholars to re think the adequacy of their methods and assumptions Andrew P Vayda concludes the volume with a critical commentary on these issues and more widely on the subject of explanation The result is an extremely useful and provocative prZcis for thinking about re evaluating and rectifying scholarly research

Managing Animals in New Guinea Paul Sillitoe, 2004-06-02 Managing Animals in New Guinea analyzes the place of animals in the lives of New Guinea Highlanders Looking at issues of zoological classification hunting of wild animals and management of domesticated ones notably pigs it asks how natural parameters affect people s livelihood strategies and their relations with animals and the wider environment

Papua New Guinea John Connell, 2005-07-28 Since 1975 the economy of Papua New Guinea has focused on mineral rather than agricultural production as previously This is the first book to look at these changes in a complex rapidly evolving nation from an economic perspective

From Primitive to Postcolonial in Melanesia and Anthropology Bruce Knaft, 2025-10-01 What have anthropologists taught us about Melanesia one of anthropology s most important and intensively studied world regions In this book Professor Bruce Knaft draws together and critically reanalyzes what we know about major features of Melanesian cultural history warfare and politics gender bodily practices and spirituality as discerned from more than a century of academic study From Primitive to Postcolonial in Melanesia and Anthropology is arguably the most comprehensive single reassessment of Melanesia as an ethnographic world area to have been published in several decades Written for students as well as professional scholars this work further broadens our understanding by analyzing the history of Melanesian ethnography and relating this history to the larger relationship between Melanesia as a contemporary world area and anthropology as a field of contemporary human study Bruce M Knaft is Professor of Anthropology Emory University and the author of three previous books as well as some thirty journal articles and chapters Knaft s interests span a wide range of issues in the anthropology of Melanesia and he is articulate with general issues of cultural theory and anthropological history
