Guide to Sources for Agricultural and Biological Research J. Richard Blanchard, Lois Farrell, 2023-07-28

Drylands Peter Beaumont, 2014-04-08 Drylands which cover over half the world's area have witnessed rapid development, exploitation and change with the discovery of mineral reserves, urbanization and population growth. Environmental management is critical to the conservation and sustainable use of resources. This comprehensive text offers a systematic study of the physical nature of drylands and the history of human response to and uses of these harsh landscapes. Detailed case studies including urban as well as pastoral drylands from California to Soviet Central Asia, the Middle East, the Sahara and Australia contrast different management approaches and problems. Desertification and Land Degradation Ajai, Rimjhim Bhatnagar, 2022-03-30 Desertification and land degradation are complex phenomena and we need to understand their causes, consequences and means to mitigate and combat their impact. Therefore, this book aims to explain the concept and characteristics of drylands, desert and desertification, land degradation, wastelands and the concept of ecosystem services. It also discusses various types of processes of land degradations, their characteristics, physics and indicators, along with mapping, monitoring and assessment of methods involved. Concept of Ocean Biological Deserts is discussed along with international and regional efforts towards combating land degradation and desertification. Key Features Provides all the aspects of desertification and land degradation at one place. Includes comprehensive methods to monitor different desertification and land degradation processes. Comprehensive overview of the mapping, monitoring and modelling techniques. Role of space-borne data in identifying, monitoring and combating desertification is evaluated and reported with real case studies. Explains the concept of ocean biological deserts, their characteristics and mapping. Water Quality Management Under Conditions of Scarcity Hillel Shuval, 2012-12-02 Water Quality Management under Conditions of Scarcity: Israel as a Case Study focuses on the problems of water quality management under circumstances of severe water resource scarcity, particularly in Israel. This book examines how Israel's engineers and scientists deal with the development and management of its limited water resources. Comprised of 13 chapters, this book starts with an overview of the interrelationships between man's well-being and the water environment. This text then explores the goal of water quality control in protecting human health and well-being from exposure to toxic chemicals and detrimental pathogenic microorganisms. Other chapters discuss the development of science, technology and administrative practice dealing with water quality control, including hygiene, environmental health, sanitation, sanitary engineering, ecology and environmental protection. The final chapter deals with the concept of hierarchical and selective water use. Biologists, engineers, chemists, agronomists, public health officers and water resources authorities will find this book extremely useful. Advances in Soil Science, 2012-12-06 The world population in 1930 was 2 billion. It reached 3 billion in 1960, stands at 4.6 billion today and is expected to reach 6 billion by the end of the century. The food and fiber needs of such a rapidly increasing population are enormous One of the most basic resources perhaps the most basic of all for meeting these needs is the soil There is an urgent need to improve and protect this resource on which the future of mankind directly depends We must not only learn how to use the soil to furnish our immediate needs but also ensure that the ability of the soil to sustain food production in the future is unimpaired This is indeed a mammoth task a 1977 United Nations survey reported that almost one fifth of the world s cropland is now being steadily degraded This volume is the first of a new series entitled Advances in Soil Science The diversity of soil makes it necessary for research to be conducted in many locations There are basic principles however that are universal This new series will present clear and concise reviews in all areas of soil science for everyone interested in this basic resource and man s influence on it The purpose of the series is to provide a forum for leading scientists to analyze and summarize the available scientific information on a subject assessing its importance and identifying additional research needs

Ecosystems of California Harold Mooney, Erika Zavaleta, 2016-01-19 This long anticipated reference and sourcebook for California's remarkable ecological abundance provides an integrated assessment of each major ecosystem type its distribution structure function and management A comprehensive synthesis of our knowledge about this biologically diverse state Ecosystems of California covers the state from oceans to mountaintops using multiple lenses past and present flora and fauna aquatic and terrestrial natural and managed Each chapter evaluates natural processes for a specific ecosystem describes drivers of change and discusses how that ecosystem may be altered in the future This book also explores the drivers of California's ecological patterns and the history of the state's various ecosystems outlining how the challenges of climate change and invasive species and opportunities for regulation and stewardship could potentially affect the state's ecosystems The text explicitly incorporates both human impacts and conservation and restoration efforts and shows how ecosystems support human well being Edited by two esteemed ecosystem ecologists and with overviews by leading experts on each ecosystem this definitive work will be indispensable for natural resource management and conservation professionals as well as for undergraduate or graduate students of California's environment and curious naturalists

Sustainable Agriculture Eric Lichtfouse, Mireille Navarrete, Philippe Debaeke, Souchere Véronique, Caroline Alberola, 2009-11-11 Sustainability rests on the principle that we must meet the needs of the present without compromising the ability of future generations to meet their own needs Starving people in poor nations obesity in rich nations increasing food prices on going climate changes increasing fuel and transportation costs flaws of the global market worldwide pesticide pollution pest adaptation and resistance loss of soil fertility and organic carbon soil erosion decreasing biodiversity desertification and so on Despite unprecedented advances in sciences allowing to visit planets and disclose subatomic particles serious terrestrial issues about food show clearly that conventional agriculture is not suited any longer to feed humans and to preserve ecosystems Sustainable agriculture is an alternative for solving fundamental and applied issues related to food production in an ecological way While conventional agriculture is driven almost solely by productivity and profit sustainable agriculture integrates biological chemical physical ecological economic and social sciences in a comprehensive way to develop new farming practices that are safe and do not degrade our environment In that respect sustainable agriculture is not a classical and narrow science Instead of solving problems using the classical painkiller approach that treats only negative impacts sustainable agriculture treats problem sources As most actual society issues are now intertwined global and fast developing sustainable agriculture will bring solutions to build a safer world This book gathers review articles that analyze current agricultural issues and knowledge then propose alternative solutions It will therefore help all scientists decision makers professors farmers and politicians who wish to build a safe agriculture energy and food system for future generations
