Apportionment in Private Law Kit Barker, Ross Grantham, 2018-12-13 This collection of essays investigates the way in which modern private law apportions responsibility between multiple parties who are or may be responsible for the same legal event It examines both doctrines and principles that share responsibility between plaintiffs and defendants on the one hand and between multiple defendants on the other The doctrines examined include those originating doctrines which operate to create shared liabilities in the first place such as vicarious and accessorial liability and more centrally those doctrines that operate to distribute the liabilities and responsibilities so created. These include the doctrine of contributory comparative negligence joint and several solidary liability contribution reimbursement and proportionate liability as well as defences and principles of equitable allowance that permit both losses and gains to be shared between parties to civil proceedings. The work also considers the principles which apportion liability between multiple defendants and insurers in cases in which the cause or timing of a particular loss is hard to determine. The contributions to this volume offer important perspectives on the law in the UK USA Canada Australia and New Zealand as well as a number of civilian jurisdictions. They explicate the main rules and trends and offer critical insights on the growth and distribution of shared responsibilities from a number of different perspectives: historical, comparative, empirical, doctrinal and philosophical.

Events and legislations in the recent past have kept this area in the limelight thanks to the media coverage and some significant legal pronouncements. Liability insurance market is less crowded. There is a dearth of technically talented and trained resources to deal with all aspects of underwriting and claims of this insurance.
