Shropshire's Military Heritage John Shipley, 2018-02-15 The picturesque county of Shropshire one of the country's least populated areas has a fascinating military history It was here that the Battle of Shrewsbury took place in 1403 the first battle in which English archers were pitted against each other on English soil The battle was celebrated by Shakespeare in Henry IV Part I The county was a central part of the Welsh Marches during the medieval period and was often embroiled in the power struggles between powerful Marcher Lords the Earls of March and successive monarchs Shropshire is home to many castles built to defend against the Welsh and enable effective control of the region From the mid eighteenth century Shropshire's military heritage has been linked to two regular regiments of the British Army the 53rd and the 85th Regiments of Foot They came together in the late 1880s to form the King's Shropshire Light Infantry KSLI the county's own regiment Soldiers of the KSLI together with the volunteer Shropshire Yeomanry served with great distinction in the two world wars In this book author John Shipley peels back the ravages of time as he explores the military heritage of this historic county

The Soldier Experience in the Fourteenth Century Anne Curry, Andy King, David Simpkin, 2011 Essays throwing fresh light on what it was like to be a medieval soldier drawing on archival research The long fourteenth century saw England fighting wars on a number of diverse fronts not just abroad in the Hundred Years War but closer to home But while tactics battles and logistics have been frequently discussed the actual experience of being a soldier has been less often studied Via a careful re-evaluation of original sources and the use of innovative methodological techniques such as statistical analysis and the use of relational databases the essays here bring new insights to bear on soldiers both as individuals and as groups Topics addressed include military service and the dynamics of recruitment the social composition of the armies the question of whether soldiers saw their role as a profession and the experience of prisoners of war Contributors Andrew Ayton David Simpkin Andrew Spencer David Bachrach Iain MacInnes Adam Chapman Michael Jones Guilhem Pepin Remy Ambuhl Adrian R Bell conceptual approaches including queer theory feminist theory and gift theory contributors offer original analyses of work by canonical and lesser known writers including Oscar Wilde A E Housman Baron Corvo Vernon Lee Michael Field and Lucas Malet The collection builds on recent critical developments in fin de si cle literature including major interventions in the areas of Decadence sexuality and gender studies and asks for instance how did late nineteenth century writing schematise the libidinal and somatic dimensions of economic exchange How might we define the relationship between eroticism and the formal economies of literary production performance And what relation exists between advertising consumer culture and dissident sexuality in fin de siecle literary discourses This book marks an important contribution to 19th Century and Victorian literary studies and enhances the field of fin de si cle studies more generally A. Administration and Organization of War in Thirteenth-Century England David S. Bachrach,2020-03-11 The essays brought together in this volume examine the conduct of war by the Angevin kings of England during the long thirteenth century 1189-1307 Drawing upon a wide range of unpublished administrative records that have been largely ignored by previous scholarship David S. Bachrach offers new insights into the military technology of the period including the types of artillery and missile weapons produced by the royal government The studies in this volume also highlight the administrative sophistication of the Angevin kings in military affairs showing how they produced and maintained huge arsenals mobilized vast quantities of supplies for their armies in the field and provided for the pastoral care of their men Bachrach also challenges the knight-centric focus of much of the scholarship on this period demonstrating that the militarization of the English population penetrated to men in the lower social and economic strata who volunteered in large numbers for military service and even made careers as professional soldiers CS1088

British Literature in Transition, 1900-1920: A New Age? James Purdon,2021-12-02 During the first two decades of the twentieth century Britain's imperial power and influence was at its height These were years of daring when adventurers sounded the mysteries of the deep sea and the distant poles aviators sped through the skies and new media technologies transformed communication They were years of social upheaval during which long suppressed voices particularly those of women of the labouring classes and of colonial subjects grew louder and demanded to be heard They were years of violence of insurrection and political agitation and of imperial conflicts that would encompass continents By subjecting specific developments in literature and related culture to a fine grained and historically informed analysis British Literature in Transition 1900-1920: A New Age explores the writing of this extraordinary period in all its complexity and vibrancy

British Agriculture in the First World War (RLE The First World War) Peter Dewey,2014-04-24 This volume comprehensively describes how British farmers coped with the problems of shortage of labour and other factors of production as well as assessing how well agriculture performed as a supplier of food to the nation Use of previously neglected records provides much evidence on issues such as the deployment of substitute labour and the introduction of the tractor into British farming for the first time Challenging accepted view on the period the author shows that shortages of labour and other factors of production had only a slight effect on farm output and the national food supply A Hard Local War William Sheehan,2017-12-29 Following years of discontent over Home Rule and the Easter Rising the deaths of two Royal Irish Constabulary policemen in Soloheadbeg at the hands of the IRA in 1919 signalled the outbreak of war in Ireland The Irish War of Independence raged until a truce between the British Army and the IRA in 1921 historical consensus being that the conflict ended in military stalemate In A Hard Local War William Sheehan sets out to prove that no such stalemate existed and that both sides were continually innovative and adaptive Using new research and previously unpublished archive material he traces the experience of the British rank and file their opinion of their opponents the special forces created to fight in the Irish countryside RAF involvement and the evolution of IRA reliance on IEDs and terrorism Bulletin of the New York Public Library New York Public Library,1910 Includes its Report 1896 19 A. E. Housman NA NA,2016-04-30 This collection of essays was conceived as part of the centenary celebrations of the first publication in 1896 of one of the most popular collections of poetry ever written A Shropshire Lad a collection never out of print in a hundred years Yet Housman was a recluse an austere classicist of great renown who devoted his academic life to the correction of ancient texts He filled his poems with the lives loves and deaths of simple country people whose emotions are intense and often violent but lived his own life in stoic acceptance of his loveless arid existence Why his life should have been so intentionally empty of emotion raises questions about Housman s own sexuality and the relationship he had with his friend Moses Jackson and Jackson s brother Afalbert Housman s poetry like his life is deceptively simple this volume shows some of the complex currents below the surface The Massacre in History Mark Levene,Penny Roberts,1999 The role of massacre in history has been given little focused attention either by historians or academics in related fields This is surprising as its prevalence and persistence surely demands that it should be a subject of serious and systematic exploration What exactly is a massacre When and why does it happen Is there a cultural as well as political framework within which it occurs How do human societies respond to it What are its social and economic repercussions Are massacres catalysts for change or are they part of the continuity of the human saga These are just some of the questions the authors address in this important volume Chronologically and geographically broad in scope The Massacre in History provides in depth analysis of particular massacres and themes associated with them from the 11th century to the present Specific attention is paid to 15th century Christian Jewish relations in Spain the St Bartholemew s Day massacre England and Ireland in the civil war era the 19th century Caucasus the rape of Nanking in 1937 and the Second World War origins of the Serb Croat conflict The book explores the subject of massacre from a variety of perspectives its relationship to politics culture religion and society its connection to ethnic cleansing and genocide and its role in gender terms and in relation to the extermination of animals The historians provide evidence to suggest that the massacre is often central to the course of human development and societal
